BOYS' AND CHILDREN'S SUITS Parents should see this department, which is no equaled in Atlanta.

We do hereby certify that we supervise the arrangements for all the Monthly and Drawings of The Louisiana State Lottery Company, and in person manage and control the Drawings themselves, and that the same are conducted all honesty, fairness, and in good faith toward this parties, and we authorize the Company to use a atcertificate, with face similes of our signature with tached, in its advertisements."

The question asked by other dealers, how can we sell silks so cheap? Our answer to them is that our connection with one of the largest importers in this country enables us to offer better inducements to our trade than any competing house. Our great trade in this department proves these facts. FOR MONDAY: 5 pieces more of our celebrated black Gro Grain ilk at 75e yard. A written guaranttee with every ress pattern sold, if desired. The cheapest silk in merica to be found only at THE BEE HIVE. 10 pieces Black Satin Rhadames, 75c yard, regular rice Sl.

AMONG GOOD PEOPLE

Who Till the Soil and Reap The Grain.

Bill Arp Goes Around Among Them and Talks of Good Old Times When Hill and Stephens Were in Their Prime.

I have been traveling overland-visiting the unpretending towns that are off the great highways. I wish that everybody could do it so as to restore the equilibrium. A man can read the great daily newspapers until he becomes a cynic, a skeptic and believer in total depravity and falling from grace. By the time he gets through the murders and robberies and delalcations and arson and suicides and hangings and strikes and anarchy and all the horrible and strikes and anarchy and all the hornibe things that are happening every day he is almost ready to surrender and give up all hopes of humanity. It makes him gloomy and despondent. But let him skip over these things for a few days and get out into the country where the good old-fashioned people abound and he will feel better.

I tell you the weeds are full of them. I am more and more convinced that the country is the place to find virtue and peace and simple habits and limited desires. The fashion and follies and general devilment of the gay and giddy world do not reach these people. But they read and think and work and withal are cheerful. I have found a region out here in west Tennessee where the country people are not moving to town—where they are farming diligenely and raising stock, where every mile and he will feel better. not moving to town—where they are farming diligenely and raising stock, where every mile or so you will pass a comfortable home with evergreens and flowers in the front yard. The most of them are in easy reach of a railroad, and every few miles there is a little village with two or three stores and as many churches and an academy, and to this hamlet the neighboring people gather, and here their children go to school, and here they attend church on the Sabbath. In these prosperous neighborhoods I could have found a warm welcome in a hundred homes. At one-place I found the young people preparing to act 'Tom Sawyer' as dramatized. At another they had a debating society just such as we used to have in my boyhood. Their last question was, "Which has done the most good in used to have in my boyhood. Their last question was, "Which has done the most good in the world—the printing press or steam?"—and one of the boys immortalized himself in his first effort by saying, "Mr. President, forty and six years ago this country was a howling wilderness—forty and six years ago this country was a howling wilderness." Not remembering any more of his speech he remarked as he sat down, "And I wish it was now." I found many an old Georgian out here and whenever I met them we had a love feast. How dear to us all is the home of our childhood. How tenderly do these people talk of the good old state they left in the long ago when they were young and the far west was their hope, their roung and the far west was their hope, their desire, their Elderado. I was discoursing an desire, their Elderado. I was discoursing an old Georgian today, a school mate whom I had not seen for forty years and I let him do most all the talking and could read his emotions as he spoke of his old home and of Ben Hill, and the Ferrells, and Judge Bull, and Bingham, and Bacon and Ridley. He said he was in the courthouse at LaGrange, and Ben Hill was sitting near him, when Thomas W. Thomas came in and handed Mr. Hill a letter. That letter contained a challenge from Alex Stephens to fight a duel. Mr. Hill read it, but did not exhibit the slightest embarrassment or excitement. He was engaged in the case at bar, and putting the letter in his pocket, attended to the case and made an admirable argument and gained the case. an admirable argument and gained the case.

Then he took my friend by the arm and asked him to go with him to his office. There he showed him the challenge and remarked: "Of course I will not—I cannot fight Mr. Stephens. My whole nature is shocked at it. It is a horrible harlarity and proves problem. My whole nature is shocked at it. It is a hor-rible barbarity and proves nothing. I will de-cline and publish my reasons. The next morning he showed his reply to my friend. It was copied and approved by him and some other personal friends, both whigs and democrats indorsed it heartily. That wither-ing reply—that unanswerable rebuke is still fresh in the memories of Georgians and democrats indorsed it heartily. That withering reply—that unanswerable rebuke is still fresh in the memories of Georgians, and did more to abolish the code of honor than had been done in half a century. Mr. Stephens published Mr. Hill as a coward, but it amounted to nothing. Mr. Hill continued to advance in popularity and lost nothing in friends or renown. Mr. Stephens had in a public speech spoken of the know-nothing party leaders as traitors to their country, and Mr. Hill replied by saying that the parallel was on the other side; that the whig party had for many years showered its honors and its favors upon Mr. Stephens, and now he had turned from it and betrayed it like Judas Iscariot did his Lord and Master, and the only difference was that Judas repented and hanged himself; but he was sorry to say that Mr. Stephens was still unrepentant and unhanged. For this language Mr. Stephens challenged him. And there were giants in those days. We discussed many notable men and somehow got onto the preachers, and he told me about his father having heard Dr. Capers, or Bispop Capers, as he was afterwards, and as he preached those wonderful sermons strong men were struck down like they had been shocked by a thunderbolt. He said there was never before nor since any pulpit eloquence like that of Dr. Capers and many such great intellectual scoffers and skeptics as Dr. Henry Branham were melted down and converted and became as helpless and humble as little children. Those who were present affirmed that when the doctor was in his sublime flights of eloquence there was distinctly visible a halo or an illumination, all evocal he was after or an illumination, all evocal he was all the children. Those who were present affirmed that when the doctor was in his sublime flights of eloquence there was distinctly visible a halo or an illumination, all evocal her was all the children. Those who were present affirmed that when the doctor was in his sublime flights or eloquence there was distinctly visible a halo or an illumination, all as helpless and humble as little children. Those who were present affirmed that when the doctor was in his sublime fights of eloquence there was distinctly visible a halo or an illamination all around his angelic countenance. There was an old man by the name of Marshall Martin who was rich and miserly and loved his money with an idolatrous devotion. He had loaned out thousands of dollars at a usurious rate of interest and had oppressed many an unfortunate debtor. Carelessly he dropped in to hear Dr. Capers preach, and as his sermon was about covetousness and the inordinate love of money, Martin became overwhelmed and alarmed—so much so that he actually made restitution to every one who had paid him usury, and it took several thousand dollar to do it. He advertised in the newspaper and called upon them to come forward and get their money back. I wish that another Capers would rise up and get after Jay Gould and those who get up corners in the necessaries of life and get after a good many more who don't live so far away. Maybe our farmers would take a new start then. But restitution is a rare thing in this sublunary world. Conscience money is very much like what a great lawyer said to his client who had paid him a thousand dollars as a retainer. The case was settled the same day without litigation. The lawyer had done nothing—he had not even opened a book or began the suit—and when his client suggested that he thought he ought to refund a part of the money, he looked surprised and said: "My friend, there are many kinds of funds, but a refund is utterly unknown to the legal profession."

but a refund is utterly unknown to the legal My Memphis friend told me about old John Bass, of Troup county, who was a good old hardshell Baptist, but in an evil moment was pursuaded to buy a lottery ticket. Sure enough it drew a prize of twenty-five hundred dollars. Before he received the money, the brethren heard of his sin and notified him to appear and be tried for gambling. The day he was to be tried he went to town early to see if the money had come. It was there and he got it. Never before had he had as much as inty dollars at one time, and so he was crazy with delight. He stuck the roll of bills in his bosom and took a big drink of whisky and rode back to the church and up to a window, and asked what they was all a-doing in there. They told him they were trying him for bettin agin a lottery. He pulled out the big roll and shook it at them, and said: "And I won the bet, too, and I'd druther stay outside with the money than inside without it." Well, it ruined him just like it ruins everybody who gets something for nothing. My Memphis friend told me about old John

The age in which we live is progressive and aggressive, but it will not produce such orators and preachers as there were forty and fifty years ago. It produces better doctors and teachers and farmers and merchants and mechanics, but not such statesmen or pulpit orators. Kentucky has no longer a Clay and Breckinridge and Marshall. Tennessee has no Gentry or Maynard or Johnson or Haskell. Mississippi no Foote or Prentiss. Alabama no Yancev. Georgia no Toombs or Hill or Stephens or Johnston or Cobb. South Carolina no Calhoun of Cheves or Hayne or Rutledge. North Carolina no Macon or Mangum or Badger. Virginia no Jefferson or Patrick Henry or Madison.

I know that the masses of the people have advanced, and therefore there is not such a contrast between them and the great men as there used to be, but it is still certain that the most notable men of the day will not compare with those I have mentioned. We have some great preachers, but none to compare with Capers, and Styles, and Pearce, and Bascomb, and the blind preacher, Waddell, whom William Wirt made famous. This is a utilitarian age, and everybody is in a hurry. There was a time when men of brains had leisure, and Solomon says that in leisure there is wisdom.

"But when a man is on a strain."

"But when a man is on a strain.
It chills the temper of his brain."

A BOMANCE IN CUBA.

How the Sweetheart of a Spanish Fortres Commander Relieved His Garrison.

From the Nashville American. We asked the Cuban to tell us something about a warmer climate for a change. Senor Rameriz thought a moment and then related the following incident: "I am a Cuban and I love Cuba, yet the ex-

"I am a Cuban and I love Cuba, yet the extreme heat of some months each year is unbearable. You remember the entrance to Havana harbor is guarded by Morro castle. The garrison numbers about 200 men. Three years ago last June the temperature rose beyond all previous records and the suffering was intense. The authorities were dreading the possible invasion of Cuba's deadliest scourge—yellow fever. News came to the city of the breaking out of the fever at the castle. Immediately steps were taken for the complete isolation of the fort. No boats were allowed to land from the infected locality and none were brave enough to venture the casting of their lot with the garrison.

"The heat waxed in intensity as the days "The heat waxed in intensity as the days went by. Long had the distress signal waved from the fort flagstaff. The inmates were known to be dying by the score and in need of medicine and supplies of all kinds, yet in all Havana not one heart seemed brave enough to make the venture of relief, which so surely seemed certain death. Each morning crowds gathered on the piers and gazed scrowfully. seemed certain death. Each morning crowds gathered on the piers and gazed sorrowfully across the waters to the fated island. At sunset each day we watched the gates open and funeral corteges wind their way down the hill to the little garrison cemetery; we listened for the volleys of salute, their number denoting how many brave fellows had succumbed that day.

"One morning the climax appeared to be reached. The sun's rays fairly penetrated one's clothing and scorched the skin beneath. No air was stirring, and the water looked like hot and burnished steel. All Havana was gathered near the shore watching anew the fatal spot near the shore watching anew the fatal spot where fellow human beings were bravely dying yet gave no sign. As we apathetically gazed across the water, for the first time in three long weeks a boat shot forth from the pier of Havana. It was loaded to the gunwales with provisions and medicines, and none in that crowd needed to be told its destination. Our eyes then sought the guider of the little eraft, and, to our horror, saw the sole occupant was a woman.

"Many a blush burned red on heated cheeks that moment. Then a universal shout of pro-test came—too late. Our coward hearts, shamed by that brave woman's fearless act, awakened us to offer as volunteers. She paused an instant from her rowing and silenced our an instant from her rowing and silenced our murmurings with a wave of her small hand. 'I am alone,' she said; 'from all Havana not one regret will follow me. 'Tis better that I should go than a life upon whose tenure hangs the fate of others. Good-by.'

"We stood silent a moment after the clear voice ceased and then a mighty roar of admiration and adieu went forth. She bowed her head—we noticed now how young and heautiful she tion and adieu went forth. She bowed her head—we noticed now how young and beautiful she was—then silently bent the oars, and under that blazing sun rowed straight into the jaws of death. We strained our eyes across the water; watched her strokes grow slower as the awful heat sapped her very life and finally paused exhausted beneath Castle Morro's walls. Those faithful souls, brave and constant to the last, refused admission, though we could feel the hunger and longing expressed in their long-suffering eyes. At length faint resistance ceased—they eagerly came down to the welcome boat—fairly lifted their angel of merey on waiting shoulders, and, followed by others bearing the medicine to which many poor fellows will owe their lives, are lost to our view within the castle wals."

The Cuban paused. The air in the little room

Hugh M. Brooks' Father Writes a Touchin

Appeal to the American People.

St. Louis, April 9 — Samuel W. Brooks. father of Hugh M. Brooks, alias W. H. L. Maxwell, father of Hugh M. Brooks, alias W. H. L. Maxwell, has written a long and touching appeal to the American people to help him save his boy from the gallows. The Post Dispatch will tomorrow print this appeal, which fills nearly seven columns. The elder Brooks gives his reasons for asking public assistance: The injustice of his son's trial and the har-lships of Miscouri state laws, which operate entirely in favor of the lower courts to the exclusion of the defendant's challenges: the competence of the jurors; the errors in the criminal judge's instructions; the failure of the court to admit proof of the tions; the failure of the court to admit proof of the tions; the failure of the court to admit proof of the accused's good character; the suppression of evidence, and particularly the frequently-denounced Dingfelder plot, by which an alleged confession was obtained from Brooks, through a detective incarecularly the St. Lowing and a proof to preserved. obtained from Brooks, through a detective incare-rated in the St. Louis jail, are all urged in measured and respectful, but strong language. The tone of the appeal is well tempered, and its terms are calcu-lated to touch the hearts and win the sympathy of the public. Brooks, senior, asks sympathetic citi-zens to send letters to Governor Moorehouse asking him to interpose his mercy between the boy and the gallows. The United States supreme court last Mon-day refused Brooks a re-hearing, and when the man-date comes down at the end of the Martin date comes down at the end of the May term, probably he will be re-sentenced to death.

A S A REPORTER WAS PASSING STEWART & Bowden's livery stable he was stopped by a big stock dealer from Kentucky. I just want to call your attention to some very fine work that was done by Messrs. Jones & Kern. Who are they? Well, they are two young men that have started a horse-shoeing shop, at 20 East Hunter street. I fell you, they will meet with big success, for their work can't be surpassed. It is greatly admired by every one who sees it. They have it down to a fine point. The reporter sought an interview with the above named gentlemen. After waiting for them to finish some shoeing the reporter made known his business. Mr. Jones says: Yes, we have started this business with the determination of doing first class work in every respect. feeling assured that when our work becomes introduced that we will be overrum with work from morning till night. Yes, will work white labor all the time and nothing but the best. How long have you worked at the business? Mr. Kern has about six years and I have about the same. Yes, we have done remarkably well for the time we have been at work—just doubled my expectations. Two great objects in shoeing is in not cutting away too much of the foot. Leave it as nature made it. I never put a hot shoe to a foot. If you do your horse will have a dry, brittle, crusty foot. Well, you must excuse me, for you see we are crowded with work—and, by Joe, there comes three more. We must increase our force. One more word, we will be here at work from 5 a. m. to 7 p. m.

is printed here in connection with music-Lilian wrote almost a trunk full of rhymes, and I have traced through many of them refer-ences to this love affair, but without obtaining any further particulars. In one piece, how-ever, she declares that it was her disappoint-ment in love that had qualified her to become a poet, and that she had no doubt of eventually acquiring fame. Pray do not laugh at her stilly a poet, and that she had no doubt of eventually acquiring fame. Pray do not laugh at her silly ambition. It was serious enough to her, as proven by her swicide. In a note left behind at the house of the Good Shepherd, she told Sister Clarissa that appreciation of her work was so slow that she would not wait for it. She would destroy herself, and leave behind the material with which her reputation would make itself. That was nonsense, of course, because the poem quoted above is one of the best that was found in her stock, and it has been freely edited by the writer to make it as good as it there appears. For the purpose of showing her talent most favorably, I give a piece which she wrote as a farewell:

piece which she wrote as a farewell

And is it only souls like mine
Must suffer doubts and fears,
And is it that God's choicest gifts
Must bear but fruits of tears?

The sensitive plant will fold its leaves
At every touch or breath,
And sbrink away in trembling fear,
A look so much like death.
'Tis so with all the human race
Who have natures highly fraught
With tender sensibilities
Which God as gifts impart.

Which God as gifts impart,
'Tis the noblest hearts that suffer
Pangs which afflict the soul;
'Tis those lofty, loyal natures
That reach a hapless goal.
They find in this life's journey
A boon for only tears;
They suffer in one moment
What others doe in year.
Ab could my wear, restless hear.

Ah, could my weary, restless heart
Be freed from wanderings here,
And could my soal transported rise
To you bright heavenly sphere—
No longer alienated feel
From my sweet convent home—
No longer in this world of tears
Would I be forced to roam.

Would I be forced to roam.

Her only hesitation in taking her life seemed to be that she wouldn't go to heaven, and she left memoranda clearly indicating that, in committing suicide she fully expected to go to everlasting punishment. But she expressed the hope that the news of her fame as a poetess would reach her ears even in the midst of eternal torture, and that their music would make her agony endurable. She went to Antoine Armedes' French restaurant at 49 West 24th street, hired a small room, locked herself in, stopped the keyhole and all crevices with cotton, turned on the gas at six burners and thus choked herself to death.

RAISEDFROMTHEDEAD

On Criminals at L'Ecole de Yrignor, Paris, France.

Fifty short years ago, and who would have believed the marvels now being worked by electricity possible. Had any wise man been mad enough to prophesy such things a hundred years ago he would undoubtedly have received such terrible punishment for being in league with the evil one that the poor victims of Salem witchcraft times would have laughed at their own fortunes as mere calid's play. And yet it would seem as if we had but entered upon the threshold of this great and subtile power. Recent experiments made by the Paris medical men savors of the impossible, the 'miraculous, and seems as unreal and ghastly as some of the midnight terrors that gathered in the brain of Edgar A. Poe. Yet this is the 19th century and we have the impassioned testimony of some of the world's greatest scientists in the columns of the most reliable medical and scientific journals of Paris.

produced a condition of the brain closely approaching, it not actually, insurity. Medical experts of the highest standing testified on both sides and between them there was very bitter feeling. When, therefore, the young sindent was condemned it was decided to hold a very careful autopsy on his brain and to test electrically its sensibility after death as a first step. Very powerful electric batteries were therefore pro-

Very powerful electric batteries were therefore pro-cured. A room near the scene of the execution was selected and all was in readiness on the appoint-ed day to get the body as quickly and secretly to the room as possible. The authorities had tully con-sented.

When, therefore, on the terrible day of death (June 2) Jean Parsuial was laid on the frame of the guillotine, his neck on the block and the heavy limite had slid down the grooves and severed the head completely from the body, trained assistants selzed the head, secured it against the cut surface of the neck, and enfolding all in a heavy shroud, hurried with their lifeless burden, still warm and bloody, to the room where the physicians and electrical savants awaited it.

The body having been quickly laid upon the table, a dozen coarse stitches were defity and rapidly taken to secure the grianing and contorted head to awaited it.

The body having been quickly laid upon the table, a dozen coarse stitches were defily and rapidly taken to secure the grinning and contorted head to the neck, and the poles of eight powerful batteries were at once applied. For a moment there was no movement, but then suddenly the score of scientists started back in horror. The muscles of the face began to twitch, the eyes to roll, the tongue was protruded, the jaws worked, and then—suddenly and without warning—the two arms were thrown up in the air, the hands grasping the severed head while the body sat erect, save for a trilling swaying from side to side. The eyes of the living dead man, distended and ghasfly, looked straight into those of his experimenters, who had recoiled in horror, and who were stupefied to hear the animated corpse utter the following words; "You are doctors, you are torturing my poor body to settle some stilly dispute about my brain; all you need to know is how to cure the brain and nerves, not how to torture and agonize them. Scotch Oats Essance will do all this and more. Now you know the secret, for God's sake let me die in peace," and the body failing heavily backward, the head lore out the stitches and rolled to a corner of the room.

THE WASHINGTON BRANCH OF THE GEORGIA RAILROAD. enseoro, Ga., March 3, 1888.—This is to y that during the year 1886, and part of I suffered so with rheumatism that I hardly get about with any comfort. I could not raise my arms above my shoulders and could not reach to my shoes. I spent three days last summer at the Electric Health Resort and since that time I have felt no symptoms of rheumatism. I attribute my cure to the Electric Rooms, although I had no faith in them before going there. M. J. ROSSMAN.

PLUM BRANCH, S. C., Marchilo, 1888.—Mr. James A. Benson, President: Dear Sir—I take the liberty of adding my experience to that of others who have been benefited by the famous Electric Health Resort. For over twenty years I had been a constant sufferer from a kidney complaint and began to think I would never obtain relief. I visited Hillman's and my testimonial is, (and I desire to make it most emphatic) that nearly a complete. most emphatic) that nearly a complete cure was effected. I stayed only a few days and am satisfied that a short while longer would have performed a perfect cure. I intend makinganother visit soon. T. K. COLLIER.

BAIRDSTOWN, Ga., February 21st, 1888.—Mr. B. F. Brown, Manager: Dear Sir—I certify that my daughter was a great sufferer from inflammatory rheumatism for one year up to the time she first visited the Electric Health Resort in February, 1887. She spent three hours in the shaft for six days. She returned home very much improved. She made another visit very much improved. She made another visit to the Resort in June following, remaining to the Resort in June following, remaining three days, using the water freely. She re-turned home and since then has not complain-ed of rheumatism. I would encourage all suf-ferers from such afflictions to avail themselves of the benefits of the Electric Health Resort. Rev. John R. Young, Minister of the Baptist Church.

About the 20th of August I went to the "Hillman Shatt" (Electric Resort,) and after spending four days there found that I was completely cured, and have been entirely well ever since then. The cure in my case was a great wonder to me and my friends, and I am a strong believer in the virtues of the place. (Signed) Mrs. J. K. Durst, January 23, 1888. Greenwood, S. C.

The Electric Rooms.

The Electric Rooms (or Shaft) are three compartments in an excavation fifty feet long, twelve feet wide, and from eight to fourteen feet deep, made in the side of the hill known as the "Electric Mound." The Southern wall of the excavation is composed of an Alum Rock, extending the full length of the compartments. In this Rock the ELECTRIC PROPARTY resides.

A SONG OF TWILIGHT. The Sad Story of Lillian Bull, a e Locks Herself in a Room, Turns of the Gas and Suffocates—The Fate of a Professional Poetess.

Relative of General Sherman.

New York, April 14.—A young woman shut herself in a room, turned on the gas without lighting it and suffocated herself to death. The newspapers are not apt to more than paragraph such an occurrence in this city, and even when Lilian Bull destroyed her life in that manner the curious romance of the case was only briefly sketched. That she got that much more than ordinary attention in print was due to the fact that she was a relative of General Sherman and his brother, the ex-governor. She had gone crazy. Scientists tell us that no person of perfectly sound mind will under any circumstances commit suicide Whether that is an invariable rule or not, it is certain that Lilian had permitted sentimentality to run beyond the limits of common sense into mental vagaries. She set up as a professional poetess. That is not mentioned as proof of insanity. A number of individuals have made rhyming a vocation without opening themselves to the suspicion of craziness. But in her case there was no doubt that the making of verses accompanied, if it did not cause, her Lilian Bull was the daughter of Platt Bull, a wealthy cotton merchant of Mobile, and it was on her mother's side that she was a blood relation to the Shermans. She was very carefully educated in an Alabama convent, and grew to womanhood in ease, refinement and luxury. She was distinctly romantic as a girl, and an inveterate reader of standard poetry. In the administration of President Hayes, she wrote to General Sherman that she was tired of indolence and greatly desired a clerkship in Washington. The general got an appointment for her in the treasury department and she staid there five years, until her health became delicate and her father died. The bereavement came at an unfortunate time of physical prostration and the trouble upset her reason. She became abnormally melancholy and General Sherman advised the placing of her in a private asylum at Tuscaloosa, Ala. Her mal-ady was mild, however, and in two years she was discharged as cured. Again the desire for activity took possession of her, but this time it had an unreasonable expression. She told her relatives that she meant to go to New York and become a school teacher. She may have really intended to do some teach-ing, if the opportunity presented itself, but her principal scheme was to come to third cousin's life: "Lilian was a fine young woman, possessing an excellent intellect and tender and true in all her instincts, but she lacked in force and character, and I found it impossible to guide her into a sensible view of life. I knew her family well, and assisted her as a friend rather than a relative. She came to me several times, but I soon lost sight of her said the part that I knew she was dead." to me several times, but I soon less signs on her, and the next that I knew she was dead."

In that same way she dropped out of the knowledge of her friends and relations, and when Mr. Rappael made a search he found her living in the Woman's home, a semi-charity institution for deserving female workers. One cold flight in last October Lilian Bull pulled the door bell at the house of the Good Shepherd, a Roman Catholic refuge for unfortunate girls and women. When the wicket was opened she handed in a piece of paper on which was written.

which was written: The knock of a poet! Respond, I pray,
And open your portal to me.
I seek a shrine wherein to lay
The offering of burning verse. O, say,
That I may enter tonight and stay,
At least till the dawn of another day,
My thanks your reward shall be—
My fame you shall some time see.

It was Sister Mary Josephine who took in this peculiar request, and Lilian was invited into the reception room, where the mother supe-rior, Ann Clover, had an interview with her.

rior, Ann Clover, had an interview with her. She was not qualified by misconduct for admission as a regular inmate, and the mother told her so; but Sister Mary Josephine had taken a fancy to her on sight, and pleaded that she be taken in anyhow.

"The dear young woman was a gentle creature," says Mother Superior," but she existed away up in the ether, and it was impossible to keep her down where her feet touched the earth. I wouldn't like to say that she was crazy then, but rather that she was so sentimental that her mind took no hold on practical subjects. She was quiet and gentle, however, and she made herself useful in our nursery department. The attachment between her and partment. The attachment between her and Sister Mary Josephine became very deep and fond, and it was a sad blow to Lilian when her intimate died, as she did two months ago."

Lilian wrote a poem on the subject, as she did on every other that arose, and here is a sample

No heart aches more than mine;
The wound is past all healing,
I seek but help divine.
My little bark goes drifting
Upon an unknown sea;
Guard well its course, sweet spirit,
"Tis safe when steered by thee.

Lilian found a new chum among the sisters in Clarissa Hayne, who says: "No matter how erratic and ur reasonably poetic Lilian may have been, she was greatly beloved here. She never mixed at all with the girls committed to this institution, her slight duties being connected with the nursery, and she lived with the sisters. We were very much afraid she would go away after the death of Sister Mary Josephine, and did our best to keep her. She wrote a great deal of rhyme, but without finishing more than one poem in ten that she commenced. She more than one poem tary Magazine, tells me that he recalls her distinctly, even among the multitude of amateur authors who beset him. He read sevamateur authors who beset him. He read several of her poems and found them conventional, although she showed a true poetic spirit and some degree of facility in expression. Of course he could not buy anything of her. A hundred excellent poems are offered every magazine where room can be found for one. John Ford, of Harper's Weekly, tells me that she seemed to be in a state of mental eostacy when she called on him, and he found it quite impossible to get her to cochprehend, much less to accept, his advice that she at once give up all idea of getting a living with verses. She did not miss many of the weekly and daily newspaper offices in her quest for buyers. Chester S. Lord, of the Sun, assured her kindly but plainly that while starvation was a danger to writers of prose fiction, it was certainty ty those who depended upon poetry.

"My dear Miss Bull," he said to her, "John G. Whittier and Henry W. Longfellow wouldn't be far beyond the mere comforts of life if they hadn't other cash resources than their fame."

A sone of TWILIGHT.

When on the world the mists began to fall, Out of the dreams that rose in happy throng, and in the dusk where fell the firelight's gleam, Softly it wove itself into our dream. Clearly to-night I hear Love's song of yore, Into my heart it sank to leave mo more; Black clouds may lower, midnight gloom the way, Ever yet I hear it at the close of day. So through my life, till death's shadows fall, Love will sing the dearest song of all. When down upon my bed I life to die And shut my eyes, to never open, I Shall hear that song of love, like lullaby; and I shall fall saleep, to wake again.

With ears still echoing the refrain of Love's sweet song of ecsiesy and pain.

Tho refrain which had suggested the verses to Miss Bull, and which is incorporated with the mist adjoining this article, is as follows: The internal my bed I life to die And shut my eyes, to never open, I Shall hear that song of love, like lullaby; and I shall fall saleep, to wake again.

The refrain which had suggested the ve this centre of American literature and establish herself as a writer of poetry. She had been encouraged by the publication, if rather obscurely, of several pieces, and she got it into her impractical head that maintenance as well as fame could be won readily. She arrived in New York a little more than a year ago. She brought a letter introducing her to N. W. Rappael, a broker, who was a distant relative, asking him to keep an oversight of her.

Lilian had just such an experience as do thousands who convince themselves that they are geniuses they aspire to be. She appreciated good poetry, and thought that she could write it. She lost no time in making a round of visits to editors' sanctums. Mr. Gilder, of the Century Magazine, tells me that he recalls her distinctly, even among the multitude of amateur authors who beset him. He read several of her poems and found them converted to the piece as here given may be credited without serious reserve to Miss Bull:

A song of twillight.

Told me that no true poetry could be written by anybody who had not felt the them eas a personal experience. So when she wrote a poem which she called 'A Song of the Twilight,' and on the subject of love between the writer and a sweetheart, I asked her if that was something out of her own life. She said that it was, that she had been engaged to a New Orleans gentleman, who had been by some cruel fate taken away from her. She did not give me the particulars of this episode, and I would not divulge them had she done so, because she talked with me in confidence."

These verses are found on examination to contain something of plagiarism, to the extent of being suggested by a piece written by J. L. Malloy, an English author; but the theft amounts to no more than a mere suggestion, perhaps, and so the piece as here given may be credited without serious reserve to Miss Bull:

A song of twillian had just such as a precise of the poems and found them them conventions to the transfer and as weeten at the trans as a personal experience. So when sh

Messrs. Strvers & Bruner, Monroe, N. C.

Dear Sirs: About two months ago, on your recommendation, I bought a bottle of Cuticura Resolvent, one box Cuticura Salve, and one cake of Cuticura Soar, for my son, aged thirteen years, who has been afflicted with eozema for a long time, and I am pleased to say that I believe the remedies have cured him. His sufferings were intense, his head being nearly raw, his cars being gone except the gristle, and his body was covered with soles. His condition was frightful to behold. The sores have now all disappeared, his skin is healthy, eyes bright, cheerful in disposition, and is working every day. My neighbors are witnesses to this remarkable cure, and the doubting ones are requested to call or write me, or any of my neighbors.

THE POTTER DRUG AND CHEMICAL CO.:

Gentlemen: Mr. Wm. S. Stephenson, of this county, brought his son to town today to let us see him, and to show us what CUTICHEA REMEDIES had done for him. This is the case referred to in our letter to you some time ago. To look at the boy now, one would suppose that there had nover been anything the matter with him—seems to be in perfect health. We have written and herewith inclose what his father has to say about the matter—wrote it just as he dictated.

We are selling quite a quantity of CUTICHEA REMID ES and hear nothing but praises for them. We regard the CUTICHEA REMEDIES the best in the market, and shall do all we can to promote their sale.

A MARVELOUS ORGAN.

The Least Understood, the Most Important, and the Source of More Suffering and Misery Than Any Other Portion of the Body.

We meet men and women every day who seem feverish, unhappy, and with a bad disposition. We very often feel indignant at them when we should feel pily. They do not know why they are so irritable, but the cause can be named in one wordspleen. There is no organ in the body so little understood, and yet so important, as the spleen. It is the governor of the body. It performs the same of fice that the governor of an engine does. To illustrate it still further, it is the hairspring of the system. It regulates the escapement. Is it possible that any reader has not felt sinkings, throbbings, misgivings at the pit of the stomach and lower regions? It is a disordered spleen. Blues, discouragements, lack of iffe are caused by the spleen. No man or woman ever committed suicide whose spleen was in perfect order. The physicians of Europe for more than a hundred years have been sending sufferers from spleen troubles or hypocrondria to Carlsbad. This has been the Mecca to which all such sufferers invariably turn. But all cannot go to Carlsbad must come to them. This has been a difficult task in the past, for the city of Carlsbad would send out the water only in small quantities, preferring that people should come there. It is now, how ever, being sent to America quite liberally, is old yall dealers everywhere, and the furore it has created is phenomenal. More absolute cures can be shown from Carlsbad water than from any other known agency, and it deserves the popularity it is receiving. 6500 am | 7510 pm 2500 bm 10500 pm 7 500 pm 712501 pm 2:08 pm 3:08 am 5:00 pm 6:15 am 7:25 pm 7:40 am 10:12 pm 10:47 am 4:25 am 3:10 pm 10:30 pm 12:15 pm 9:10 am 7:05 pm 10:30 pm 3:24 pm 3:35 am 9:10 am 7:05 pm 5:08 am 10:50 am 8:34 pm 5:20 am 7:00 am 6:11 am 11:31 am 9:05 pm 6:57 am 7:45 am

This schedule is a rather peculiar one, but has Cessful up to July 14th.

It will be observed that Augusta and Savanna play twenty-four games together, and Atlanta and Columbus play twenty-four games together. The Bavannah and Augusta clubs each play but six games in Atlanta, and Atlanta plays but six games in each of those cities. In other words, Atlanta plays twice as many games in Columbus as in any other city.

Such an arrangement is manifestly unfair to comebody. If Columbus has one of the weaker clubs in the league, then the schedule favors Atlanta. If the Atlanta club proves a tail-end, the schedule favors Columbus.

The same sort of argument applies to Augusta and Savannah.

The reason the schedule has been made in this way is evident—it will result in agreat saving in the matter of railroad fares. It may be that this will prove a wise move, for all the club start in the matter of railroad fares.

prove a wise move, for all the clubs start in the meason in a somewhat shaky condition. But if the clubs are at all closely matched it is safe to predict that the season will be extended into the fall months, and that a great deal of interest will be taken in the result.

It will be observed that the season opens on Tuesday, May 1st, with Atlanta in Augusta, and Columbus in Sayannah. Atlanta gets Fourth of July at home. During the third week of May, the second week of June, and the last week of June, all clubs rest. Atlanta will arrange exhibition games with rest. Atlanta will arrange exhibition games with Bouthern league clubs on off days of that week and during the entire season.

THE WORK ON THE GROUNDS.

Mr. Ed Peters, of the Atlanta Street Railway con pany, has arranged to put a force of men on the grounds this week, and in a few days Athletic park will begin to assume its old-time appearance. One trouble with the park was that it was never properly diched so as to drain off the water. It is under-Stood that Mr. Walter Larendon has prepared a plan to rectify this mistake, and the workmen will at once put it into effect.

The stands are now in good shape, a few repairs and a general cleaning up being all that is neces-mary. Everything will soon be in ship-shape condi-tion and there will be joy in the grand stand and on the bleaching boards when the familiar "play ball" THE ATLANTA CLUB.

This schedule is a rather peculiar one, but has doubtless been arranged upon the supposition that the season will be extended in case it proves suc-cessful up to July 14th. It will be observed that Augusta and Savannah play twenty-four games together, and Atlanta and Columbus play twenty-four games together. The Savannah and Augusta clubs each play but six games in Atlanta, and Atlanta plays but six games in each of those cities. In other words, Atlanta plays twice as many games in Columbus as in any other city.

Such an arrangement is manifestly unfair to comebody. If Columbus has one of the weaker clubs in the league, then the schedule favors Atlanta. If the Atlanta club proves a tail-end, the schedule favors Columbus. The same sort of argument applies to Augusta and Savannah.

The reason the schedule has been made in this way is evident—it will result in agreat saving in the matter of railroad fares. It may be that this will prove a wise move, for all the clubs start in the season in a somewhat shaky condition. But if the clubs are at all closely matched it is safe to predict that the season will be extended into the fall months, and that a great deal of interest will be taken in the result.

It will be observed that the season opens on Tues-

It will be observed that the season opens on Tuesday, May 1st, with Atlanta in Augusta, and Columbus in Savannah. Atlanta gets Fourth of July at home. During the third week of May, the second week of June, and the last week of June, all clubs rest. Atlanta will arrange exhibition games with Bouthern league clubs on off days of that week and during the entire season.

THE WORK ON THE GROUNDS.

Mr. Ed Peters, of the Atlanta Street Railway comvany, has arranged to put a force of men on the frounds this week, and in a few days Athletic park will begin to assume its old-time appearance. One trouble with the park was that it was never properly ditched so as to drain off the water. It is understood that Mr. Walter Larendon has prepared a plan to rectify this mistake, and the workmen will at once put it into effect.

THE ATLANTA CLUE.

Mr. Steve Postell is at the head of the Atlanta club as president and business manager. The gentlemen who are interested in the project and who are acting with Mr. Postell are Messra. W. T. Gentry, George S. Hoppie and George Hope. These gentle-

Lawrence, the captain, will be pleased to entertain all challenges.

THE ELEVENTH COMMANDMENT. An Article by an Atlantian Which Has Excited Much Favorable Comment.

From the Memphis Avalanche.

The current number of the North American Review contains the subjoined excellent article from the pen of Mr. Walter Gregory, formerly of Memphis, and now one of Atlanta's rising lawyer.

lawyers:
In this very pleasant world you may look upon men in either of two ways. At the outset you must make your selection. Your choice will, in part, reveal yourself. It will set you must make your selection. Your choice will, in part, reveal yourself. It will also determine your happiness and success. You are here with us. You must remain awhile. And you must shape yourself upon one theory or the other. You must say: Resolved, That all men are Ishmaelites. Or you may pause and reflect. You may give such a conclusion the consideration it deserves. You may dignify it with its proper importance. Then, perhaps, you may say: Resolved, That all men are brothers. It is a matter of no concern to "all men" which resolution you adopt; but it concerns you very greatly. It will make a big difference in your history.

Did it ever occur to you what a profound lesson was taught in that horn-book story where your attention was called to the fact that "Mary loved the lamb, you know?"

Now that you are a grown child, it is taught you again in the statement "He first loved us."

There is a new religion now growing in this world. Or, if you prefer, there is an old religion, up to which this world is now growing.

The most hopeful sign of these times is that this new-old religion is finding congenial soil. Just in proportion as it is generative will this world be a pleasanter place in which to live.

The ten old commandment is the best, "A new commandment I give unto you, that ye love one another." It is the dutiful religion of the universal brotherhood of men. I had rather lay one stone in the foundation of its temple than to have the ownership of the world, during my brief stay here.

It means universal charity. Charity of thought. Charity of feeling. Charity of judgment. It means the actual and practical relief of suffering. It means largeness of sympathy. It means respect for the humanity in its broadest and most comprehensive sense. It means the cultivation of that most loveable habit—the habit of usefulness.

AN INTERESTING SERMON Preached by the Rev. H. Wise Bevill at Austell.

Austell. Ga., April 14.—[Special.]—The Rev. H. Wise Bevill, pastor of the Christian church at Griffin, preached a very interesting sermon here to a large congregation. He enlarged upon the following argument, showing the teachings of the Christian church, and urged the necessity of baptism:

Conversion from first to lest is the work of the holy spirit, through the Word.

Faith changes the heart. Repentance changes the life; baptism the relationship, or the door into the kingdom. Austell.

holy spirit, through the Word.

Faith changes the heart. Repentance changes the life: baptism the relationship, or the door into the kingdom.

He that believeth and is baptized shall be saved; but he that believeth not shall be damned. [Mark xvi:16.] Then Peter said unto them, Repent and be baptized, every one of you, in the name of Christ, for the remission of sins, and ye shall receive the gift of the Holy Ghost. [Acts ii:38.] And I said, What shall I do, Lord? And the Lord said unto me, Ar.se and go into Damascus, and there it shall be told thee of all things which are appointed for thee to do. [Acts xxii:10.] Who-socor therefore shall confess me before men, him will I confess also, before my father which is in heaven. [Matt. x:32.] Now, why tarriest thou. Arise and be baptized, and wash away thy sins. calling on the name of the Lord. [Acts xxii:16.] Jesus answered and said, Verily, verily, I say unto you, except a man be born of water and of the Spirit, he cannot enter the kingdom of God. [John III-3]. If ye then be risen with Christ, seek those things which i re above: where Christ sitteth on the right and of God. [Col. III:1]. For ye are the children of God by faith in Jesus Christ. For as many of you as have been baptized into Christ, have put on Christ. [Gal. III:3, 7.].

But, God be thanked, that ye were the servants of sin, but ye have obeyed from the heart that form of dectrine which was delivered to you. Being them made free from sin ye became the servants of righteousess. [Rom. vi: 17, 8.] There is therefore now no condemnation to them which are in Christ Jesus hath made me free from the law of sin and death. [Rom. viii: 1, 2.] For, if ye live after the Spirit shed heart the spirit of bondage again to fear; but ye have received the spirit of bondage again to fear; but ye have received the spirit of bondage again to fear; but ye have received the spirit of bondage again to fear; but ye have received the spirit of bondage and to fear; but ye have received the spirit of adoption: whereby we cry. Dear Sirs: I take great pleasure in acknowledging the great benefit my wife has derived from your great and wonderful medicine, B. B. B. For two years she was a great sufferer from scrofula or some blood disease which had lain dormant all her life. We had attention from some of the most skillful physicians in the country, but all to no effect until we had despaired of her ever recovering. Her mouth was one solid ulcer, and for two months or more her body was broken out with sores until she lost her beautiful head of hair, also eye lashes and eye brows. In fact, she seemed to be a complete wreck.

Now comes the great secret which I want all the KENNESAW, Ga., September 1, 1887,

Now comes the great secret which I want all the Now comes the great secret which I want all the world to know, and that is that three bottles of Blood Balm has done the work which would seem incredible to any one who did not know it was so. Today my wife is a perfect healthy woman, and she now has a three months' old babe, also perfectly healthy.

Very Dignified. From the New York Sun. "Florence Dayton, sir," said a pretty girl to Justice Murray when he inquired her name day.

"You were charged with being drunk," said Jus-tice Murray in an unusually low tone.
"Beg pardon, sir," she said smiling. The justice repeated his statement louder "That is a mistake, sir."

"The policeman says you were," said the justice again speaking low.
"Beg pardon, sir." "Again the justice repeated.
"The policeman was mistaken, sir."
"Have you ever been arrested before?"
"Incarcerated? Never before." "I think you are still drunk."

"You are drunk," thundered the justice.

"Ten days." A slight and freezing bow, and Florence was led away.
"That's the worst experience I ever had," remarked the justice, mopping his brow.

CONSTITUTION OFFICE.

There has been a shade more life in security trading this week, and yet it is not what it should be at this season of the year. Inquiry from the country has fallen off to almost nothing, and there will hardly be anything more in purchases from out of town people until fall. Sound investment bonds are taken more readily than for two of three weeks past, but stocks are heavy. Central is down to 1160 117; Georgia is oftered freely at 199@200; West Point can be had in round lots at 100; while Southwestern hangs round 126@127. The roads are all doing well as far as our information extends, and there is no likelihood of a decrease in dividends we are in-formed, so that the stock mentioned have been sell-ing too high, or are selling too low now. Money is easy for short time loans, but lenders are careful no to let it out for a long time. We will probably see it much closer later on than it is now. It is said that the Georgia Central company will way of Americus, to Columbus. If this be true, and it cemes to as from reliable authority, the new road will, for a part of the way, develop a fine country, but, for the other portion of the route, compete closely with roads already built and in operation. The business of this last section is hardly great en ugh for two or more roads, and somebody will, therefore, have an unprofitable piece of property. Active work is being done on the Georgia Southern and Fiorida, the Chattanooga, Rome and Columbus, the Marietta and North Georgia, the Atlanta and Florida and the Covington and Macon. It is rumor-ed that there are negotiations on foot looking to a change of route of the Atlanta and Florida, placing the southern terminus either at Savannah or Bruns-wick. We do not vouch for this, but have heard it as a rumor for the last few days. Figures showing earnings and expenses of the Americus, Preston and Lumpkin are very gratifying, and continue to attest the wisdom of the promoters of that road.

Stocks as Reported at the New York Stock

Exchange. NEW YORK, April 14.—The stock market to day exhibited no change in its temper from that o previous days of this week. Outside interest in dealings was reduced to the smallest proportions while the business done was left entirely in the hands of the professional element. Commission people were conservatively bullish, but traders fa-vored a further reaction, and after the first few buying orders were executed the market sagged off slowly without interruptson during the remainder of the session. The bulls were confident of their ability to prevent any material decline, however, and did little or nothing, and the only feature of the day was shown in the firmness of Richmond and West Point, St. Paul and Missouri Pactic, all of which advanced slight fractions. The opening was quiet, and while irregular was generally lower, Some strength was shown in the early trading, howsome stought was shown in the arty thating, low-ever, and gains ranging up to % per cent were es-tablished, but the improvement was $8000 n. lost and the market became extremely dull and entirely de-void of feature of any kind. Prices continued to sag until the close, which was dull and heavy at bout the lowest price reached. Total sales wer

NEW YORK, April 14—Hubbard, Price & Co., in their circular today, say: The cotton market has shown a little more animation. The opening was rather fat. The bears felt rather inclined to sell, and the first trades on the call were made at a fractional dealist after the control of the control and the first trades on the call were made at a frac-tional decline from last night's close, but it soon be-came eyident that prices would not recede any fur-ther, and the room shorts quickly commenced to copier. Under such a demand prices underwent a sharp reaction and gained six points, closing at the best prices, of the day and five points above yes-terday.

NEW YORK, April 14— The total visible supply of cotton for the world is 2,855,554 bales, of which 1,951,254 bales are American, against 2,601,714 bales and 1,956,411 bales respectively last year. Receipts at all interior towns 18,710 bales. Receipts from plantations 14,723 bales. Crop in sight 6,578,133 bales.

Features of the Speculative Movement in Grain and Provisions. majority, experienced its greatest firmness and activity and touched its highest point for the week this morning. There were many minor arguments on the buils side, but the authentic crop reports were more powerful than anything else in lifting prices. At this point there was such general buying that individual deals were lost sight of until toward the close, when it was pretty clear that several operators were big buyers, even after the top had been reached for the morning and there had been a 12 reaction. Operators who had realized and taken the profits were believers in slim higher prices. The action in May was as follows: Opening at 78%. sold straight up to 79%c, back to 78%c, up the second time to 79%c, back to 79%c, up to 79%c, and back shortly before the close to 79%c, closing at The action in corn today was an uncommon one In less than an hour after the opening of the ses sion futures sold about 1½c over the closing prices last night's figures. The range was wide and the volume of trading was not as large as this would two things: First, the shortage in receipts, and, second, the scarcity of sellers when the stuff was wanted. May started at 55%c, sold up to 56%c and closed at 551/4c. Oats turned a somersault with corn. May started at 321/4c, where it closed last night, advanced to 331/4c and fell back with corn, and closed at 321/4c—1c under the best price of the day and 1/c under the close indicate- The bulge was principally the result of

of yesterday. of yesterday,

Provisions were moderately active, stronger and higher, due to increased trading and the advance in grain; also to light receipts and higher prices for hogs. The syndicate was buyer and seller, and assisted in advancing the price of May pork from $11.20 to $14.40. A good many scattering lots of long stuff came out in the advance, and a recession to $14.30 followed the last sale, being at that fourte $14.30 followed, the last sale being at that figure Short ribs were active. May advanced 1256c, sellin One firm sold freely on the bulge, and in of 71/2 followed, but the last sales were a 5@71/2c above yesterday's close. New South Woven Cord Fur. Co., Atlanta, Ga., April 13th, 1888 .-Gentlemen :- It is with pleasure I beg to add my testimony in regard to your Woven Cord Spring and Light Mattress. We have been using them for some time past and find them to be the best we ever tried. The greatest trouble we had experienced with all other springs was they sagged in CHICAGO, April 14-[Special.]—The wheat mar-tet, which was considered strong all the week by a different places and made holes, as it were, that rendered them very uncomfortable, which the peculiar construction and tensions of your spring entirely obviate, and it is impossible to make it uneven, sag or lower in the middle, no matter what the difference in weight of occupants of the bed. I think my evidence as to the merits of the pring is beyond dispute, when I state as a truth that the combined weight of myself and wife is nearly 500 pounds. Respectfully,

CHARLES W. SEIDELL.

Quite a pleasant entertainment occurred at Mrs. Moomaugh's residence, 52 East Cain street, Friday night, for the benefit of Decatur street mis-sion, given by Miss Mollie Weathers, assisted by the following ladies: Mrs. Bradberry, Mrs. Moore, Misses Mattie Weathers, Mattie Moomaugh, Della Calwell and Eula Hubbard.

And Eula Hubbard.

The programme was participated in by Little Miss Mande Alleu, Miss Alice King, Miss Genie Moomaugh, Miss Hubbard, Miss Lillian Barrow, Mr. Pat O'Connor, Miss Kate Allen and Miss Parks.

The cavalry festival and tournament which comes off in May, promises to be an immense attraction to the young people of other cities as well as to those of Atlanta. The young ladies must bear in mind that Atlanta has always been foremost as having the most beautiful and graceful girls, and no city can compare with this in general attractive-ness of its women. Their reputation must, therefore, be sustained in the coming coutest, and the honor of being chosen "queen of love and beauty" must not for a moment be lost sight ofor allowed to be snatched away by some one from another city. If the girls have no friends among the brave cavalry men, they must lose no time, but make it the business of their lives to form such acquaintances, and then bestow upon them their sweetest and most captivating smiles. In this case, time is golden.

The Willing Workers of the First Baptist church gave an entertainment at the residence of Mrs. Long, on Ellis street, on Friday night. To say Mrs. Long, on Ellis street, on Friday hight. To say that the young people enjoyed themselves is but a feeble expression. Miss Aunie Long was perfect as hostess and was untring in her efforts to make the evening a pleasant one. The programme was thoroughly enjoyed by all present. Mr. Howard Jones, by special request, recited and captured all who heard him. The evening was an enjoyable one, will be long remembered by those present.

Surely Atlanta is to be congratulated upon having the best musical talent and the largest amount of it of any city of her size in the country. This season the people will be especially favored, and a musical feast will be spread before the public that should satisfy the most critical. Several of Atlanta's best musical societies are now rehearing, Adanta's best musical societies are now rehearsing, and will give at an early date some of the compositions of the best masters.

Madame Schultze and her son, Amadeo Von der Hoya, delighted a large audience at the Kimball last evening, and later, on comes the great Gijmore, with his worldwide renown, before whom all other musical stars pale. The Atlanta chorus, under directorship of Professor Salter, will be a great acquisition to the festival festival.

A few weeks following that event "our own Polymnia" will give one of their concerts. The club has been in rehearsal several weeks. The well known reputation of the director, Professor Barili, is a sufficient guarantee that the concert will be a musical ear. This promises great things to lovers of good music, and those who have been favored with admission to some of the rehearsals are loud in praise of the great ability of Professor Sternberg as director of the festival.

Dr. N. J. Bussey, of Columbus, and his accomplished wife, nee Miss Salooel McKinley, passed through Atlanta yesterday afternoon, on their way to Salt Springs. After a short sojourn at that place, they will visit the north, spending the summer at Newport, Manhattan beach, Brighton beach and other resorts. Their many friends wish them a pleasant trip.

Invitations are out for the marriage of Miss Lilie Lee. daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Peck, to Mr. Allan P. David, of Savannah. The ceremony will be performed at the First Presbyterian chi at half-past four o'clock on the afternoon of Wed-nesday, the 25th instant. After the ceremony a re-ception will be tendered the young people at the Feck homestead, No. 33 Ivy street. Miss Lillie Feck is one of Atlanta's most charming young ladies, and has always been popular in society.

It is said that there is a piece of lace being made by the dainty hands of an Atlanta lady which, for beauty of design and neatness of work, unequaled in the history of anything made with the crochet needle. When completed it will be a Perfect marvel of patience and ingenuity. The number of yards of thread used for the work is forty thousand. That means, of course, two hundred pools, each spool holding two hundred yards. The lace is to be used in a dress, the skirt of which will be made of four yards of the lace, which is in width forty-four inches. The waist will be made of lace, and likely the sleeves, making the whole dress one of the greatest curiosities in the way of hand-made lace that can be imagined.

The company whose thread is being used in the making of the lace have offered twenty-five dollars per yard for it when completed, and is very anxious her new home. The News and Observer has the following notice:

The large audience at the first presentation of the operetta on last Friday night could not refrain from industriously sounding forth its well merited praise, and when it was presented again last night, the hall and galieries were about as full as they could be gotten. Among the principal things talked about for the last few days in connection with the operetta was Mrs. J. B. Shipp s superb management and supervision of it from beginning to end. To her the public is indebted for this, the most delightful and thoroughly successful amateur performance ever seen in Raleigh. The idea of getting it up for good and charitable objects originated with her, and the funds of Edenton street church and St. John's hospital and perhaps other noble causes will derive great help and benefit from it.

At Mrs. C. W. Hubner's entertainment at nilie seminary for the Fifth Presbyterian church there were two little ones especially praised. Charming, wee Janet Bain is a wonder. She is the embodiment of grace, and her gestures are the im-personation of the faultless rhythm and musical rhyme of which Father Ryan speaks. One who has not heard the recitations of little Sue Belle Moody has surely missed a treat. She promises much, and the beautiful little maiden will bring jey to the The literary circle, under the auspices of the ibrary committee will, meet in the library parlors lext Tuesday evening at half past seven o'clock. Mr. Joel Chandler Harris will be the author under discussion. Mr. Charles T. Logan will give a per sonal sketch of him, while others will read selec tions from his writings. Among them Miss Starke will read a sketch, and Mr. Charles McClendon will read from his writings. Dr. George L. Chancy is expected home in time to say something also. Those who believe that a prophet is without honor in his own country, should meet with this circle and witness the loving appreciation shown Invitations are out for a Lotto party, to be given by Miss Kathleen Smith, at her residence, 55 Eaker street, on Tuesday, 17th instant. This is a new feature in entertainments, and we are sure it will be a success.

At the entertainment given by Dr. and Mrs. ness of their lives to form such acquaintances, and the bestow upon them their sweetest and most cappieces with an air of ease and grace which showed that she has inherited the talent of her mother, who, as Florence Elmore, is one of the favorite actresses of the south. These young ladies are visitors to Atlanta, Miss Johnston being the guest of Mrs. Dr. Ridley and Miss Lewis of Mrs. Welborn Hill. A pretty feature of this portion of the entertainment, and one highly commended by every body, was the good sense the young ladies showed by remaining seated while reciting.

A happy marrriage will take place Wednesday, the 18th. The contracting parties are Mr. W. J. Milner and Miss Mattie Whitner, both of this city. The wedding will be solemnized at the residence of the bride's parents, on South Pryor street. Only the relatives of the parties will be present.

The entertainments given by the different bands of the King's Daughters in this city during the week, have given great pleasure to the who attended, and have, in every way, been gratifying to the ladies in charge. Quite large sums have been raised which will be spent by them in the direction of charitable purposes.

The ladies extend thanks to those who have contributed in any way to their entertainments. Sev eral more will be given this season.

On Monday evening, band one will give a donkey party and dance at the residence of Mrs. Curran on Houston street. A pleasant evening is promised to all who attend.

Mr. James Cooper Myers, son of Deputy Mr. James Cooper Hyers, so that Deputy Clerk Frank M. Myers, was the recipient of an elegant and delightful dinner party given by Mrs. Mc-Alpin, one of Sayannah's most charming ladies, in honor of his twenty-first birthday, on April 7th. This fortunate young man received many handsome presents from his friends, both in Atlanta and Sayannah. "May he live long and prosper," is the with of his many friends averywhere.

On Wednesday evening the wedding of Miss Agnes Theodora Welch to Mr. Solomon Hoge, of Macon, was solemnized at St. Paul's church in this city. This was one of the most beautiful and impressive marriage services ever held here and was performed by Rev. T. G. Pond, of Mt. Airy, assisted by Rev. W. E. Eppes, rector of the parish.

The groom is a popular young business man of Macon, and the bride one of Albany's most charming daughters; one whom loving friends have seen grow up from a tiny infant through happy child-life to budding womanbood, a life whose twenty summers have devoloped many sweet characteristics and womanly charms endearing her to a large circle of friends and admirers.

Her father, Mr. L. E. Welch, has led a life of usefulness in this city, foremost in good works, energetic in the promotion of enterprises for the benefit of the community. The marriage of his only daughter attracted widespread interest in the community. Albany.

of the community. The marriage of his only daugniter attracted widespread interest in the community.

Loving hands had decked the church with a wealth of beauty possible only at this season in a climate such as ours, in a land where the generous soil and southern sun unite to develop the loveliest flowers into the greatest perfection. The chancel was a perfect bower of bloom. Above it was suspended a chime of church bells. The altar was ablaze with the soft and mellow light of innumerable waxen candles in silver candelabra. Lights placed back of the memorial window of cathedral glass brought out the great figure of St. Paul into bold relief. Around his head the halo seemed to shine out and scintillate with brightness.

The decoration of the church and chancel was superintended by Mrs. S. F. Jennings, whose exquisite taste was never shown to better advantage than upon this occasion.

Shortly after eight o'clock the bridal party entered to the sweet strains of Mendessohn's wedding march, played exquisitely by Mrs. T. N. Woolfolk. The bride entered, leaning upon the arm of her father, and looked very sweet and lovely in her toilette of white silk en traine with the veil of white illusion and the conventional orange blossom. The groom and groomsmen were in full dress, the bridesmaids were attired in white muil.

They made a beautiful picture as they took their places, surrounded by flowers and with a background of light and color.

The attendants were Misses Nannie and Johnnie Davis, Carrie Hill and Mannie Crowe, of Albany, Misses Julia and Addle Hoge, of Macon Misses Julia and Addle Hoge, of Racon Miss Na'lla Vancey. of Richmond, and Miss Davis, Carrie Hill and Mamie Crowe, of Albany, Misses Julia and Addie Hoge, of Macon, Miss Ne'lle Yancey, of Richmond, and Miss Mollie Connally, of Philadelphia, Messrs. Charles D. Fearson, of Macon, and L. E. Weich, d. Albany.

The ushers were W. R. Leakin, H. A. Tanner, Jr., T. M. Nelson and R. S. Patillo.

Immediately after the service a number of friends of the young couple removed to the residence of the bride, where a delightful wedding supper was served and where congratulations were showered upon the newly wedded pair. They start upon their new life under many happy auspices and surrounded by the love and regard of a host of friends and well wishers who unite in bespeaking for them much happiness and prosperity.

Gainesville is noted throughout the south as a summer resort of many and varied attractions, and it is destined to be one of still greater popularity. Every summer prominent people all over our sumy land spend the summer months here in perfect contentment, drinking the finest water and inhaling the finest air to be found anywhere. Gainesville society is of the best. The young men are gallant and gentlemanly, and the young ladies are beautiful, refined and accomplished, and every one is always on the lookout for enjoyment for the city's guests who are with us during the summer. The latest thing is the organization of a lawn tennis club among our young people and a few married ladies. A beautiful ground has been secured and will be placed in excellent condition at once. This popular game will be the means of affording much genuine pleasure, both for our home people and the summer visitors. An archery club is also being spoken of with good prospects of an organization. Our hotels and private boarding houses are making extensive preparations for the accommodation of large crowds during the summer, and already many have engaged rooms for the entire season. Others have already come and will remain with us for months in happiness in this favored God's land. While others will soon follow and by the first of June our city will be full of strangers and society people from all over the south. Among those whom we have not eed here the last week or so are the following: Mrs. Shafer, Dallas, Texas, are stopping at Mrs. Rich's residence on Bradford street. Mrs. R. A. Harris. Atlanta; Mrs. C. ference in Style of Dress of Northern and Southern Women-Among the Artists-Miss Murfree's Success.

New York, April 13.—[Special.]—Some years ago a witty Georgia man remarked that he could always know a southern girl in New York by her having on cloth shoes and a knit shawl. The evil days when such articles of dress were prevalent have vanished, and yet a southern woman in this big city cannot fail to feel a decided lack of style in her air. No feel a decided lack of style in aer air. He northern woman—not even the commonest—looks slouchy. They all have a well-sowed and draped look, possessed by one woman in twenty in a southern city.

I went to Redferns this morning. The pretty English girl looked at me from head to foot,

English girl looked at me from nead to 100t, then called my attention to what she termed a pretty little inexpensive gown, only eighty-five dollars. It was composed of blue and white canvas cloth, and very plainly made. Then she spread out another still cheaper little frock, only sixty-five dollars, a white linen white the down border of blue grey yachting suit with a deep border of blue grey linen round the bottom, stitched closely with white braid. Everything is covered with braid now .. A peculiarly costumed girl got in the car yesterday. She wore an im-mense dull blue wrap covered with black snake-like coils of braid and having long flow-ing sleeves. She was utterly without the sug-gestion of a bustle and her fair head was proected from the sun by a flat black velvet hat, resembling an oyster pan. She looked well someway, so I described her to the Redfern girl, who told me that she was dressed in the latest Paris fashion. She said that

BUSTLES WERE ABSOLUTELY ABOLISHED in London and Paris, and that they only put them in their suits here, because Americans were slower to change their styles. For some reasons the discontinuance of the bustle will be a good thing. They were being made of wires never heavy and injurious to the back as men supposed, but their wires made a woman, when sitting down, feel-like a Jack in a box when sitting down, feel.like a Jack in a box about to spring.

The prettiest things in the way of garments now are the long, loose wraps, made of tan or silver-gray broadcloth and lined with goldbrown or terra-cotta satin. Such garments can be worn over anything and cover a multitude of shalby draperies. Green takes the place in dress that cardinal had some years back. There is a suggestion of green in almost every costume, and pea green, olive and myrtle are often mixed in one costume with good effect. The tea gowns all have something green about them.

It is a common saying that one can wear anything in New York, but a peculiar get up will be observed even here, for yesterday, when Fifth avenue contained its usual Sunday throng, I walked behind a woman whom every man and woman turned to look at. She was clothed from the waist down in a terra-cotta satin skirt, with draperies of plum colored woolen wrought in immense tapestry figures, her waist was covered with a rusty, beaded velvet jacket, and she wore a flat, black hat, covered with flaming ribbon.

AMONG THE ARTISTS.

I have been to the Metropolitan museum, but it is impossible to describe such a place minutely. Miss Wolfe's pictures are, as a whole, the best collection in the building. Every painting is perfect in execution and the subjects are exquisitely defined. There is a fine collection of Flemish paintings. How well those old Dutchmen could paint kitchen scenes and wrinkled old crones peeling potatoes at their doors; how perfectly they picture village festivals and inn suppers. Their genius only played them false when they attempted painting female beauty. Even Rubens gives us pudgy females without bangs or hair ripples, and with large, doughy noses.

There are some beautiful pictures at the Academy of Design, and the painting "An Evening Breeze," by Moubray, that is thought to be the prize picture of the exhibition, is a wonderful piece of imaginative work. It is a spring-time fully touched with the last golden kisses of the sun, and here and there in the emerald grass lie purple mists of thistle down as soft as autumn skies; wafted down this field of beauty are six lute-playing women in a gentle curving line; their feet are barely above the grasses and they seem to sway as you look upon them. Their gaudy draperies seem wrought of the colors of earth and sky.

The artists here give Horace Bradley much praise, and say he is succeeding wonderfully. It is a hard thing for southern artists and writers to do well in a place where many have made a study of their work for years; yet it seems that there is always success for talent and perseverance.

SUCCESS OF A SOUTHERN GIRL.

Two years ago a New Orleans girl came here penniless and unknown, and applied at the daily offices for work. She met with discouragement everywhere. She asked the editor of the World to give her a position, and he told her he could not; then she told him she'd send him her writings anyway, and he said he could not pay for them, but she sent them in the face of this and her articles were taken, and in a short time she was appointed literary editor of the paper, which position she still retains; with that and other literary work she makes an ample and other literary work she makes an ample support. She is a beautiful woman, tall and queenly and of that Irish type so tender and expressive.

Miss Murfree is a universal favorite with the keenest critics here. People positively ran over her genius and I have not heard one word of condemnation in regard to her writ-word of condemnation in regard to her writings.

Amelie Rives is picked to pieces upon all sides. Her last story has brought down a volley of mocking words upon her, yet I think the woman's genius can defy almost anything. "The Quick and the Dead" was uncanny from a certain point of view, yet it was full of splendid things. Some critic pronounces it hysterical, and so it was; yet a loving woman of the kind she portrayed would have been just as wild in her grief and love. I have seen such women. The story is one no man can fully enter into, but it seems to me that a woman could clearly comprehend its very worst.

can fully enter into, but it seems to me that a woman could clearly comprehend its very worst.

Miss Rives's personality is being picked to pieces also, and I have heard many marvelous tales concerning her—one of them is that the editors here who was debating as to whether or not he would take her work, went to Virginia to see her, and that five minutes after they met, she fainted in his arms, and, that after this, he had been taking all the work she sent. Well, if this is true, I don't blame the editors, and I'm sure the literary taste of our magazine readers has not, in consequence, been jarred upon by the publication of such stories as "The Farrier Lass" and "Arnon." With what pleasure that editor must regard the coat she fainted on. I think he keeps it hanging m his den and regards it daily with tenderness. No, no, people can't criticise Amelic Rives with any effect. They tried it with George Eliott, but it came to naught and those three women were ugly, too.

Speaking of ugliness, reminds me to say, I have seen but one negro since my arrival. She was jet black, and rusty as to garments, and her heels stuck as far out behind, as if she had walked from Georgia that morning. I was touched by her home-like air, and passing, turned to look upon her countenance to find that its nasal feature was adorned with a pahr of yankee eye-glasses.

The Care of the Hands.

A delicate, well kept hand, is one of the chief points of beauty; therefore every woman who would add to her attractions should bestow careful attention to these details which affect not only her promal appearance, but reveals a refuned and cultivated mind. The gentle woman of today is not a doll to show off fine clothes and jewels, but has many occupations, and devotes some parts of her time to personal attention to her home, and is not above arranging and assisting in such matters as contribute to its beauty and harmonious effect. She may, perhaps, have less delicate hands than the woman who does nothing, for if constantly used in such light matters as writing, painting or sewing, they will be less white than if always in repose. But a little care will pressure soft, fine flesh, and deily attention will keep well rounded and polished rails. The treatment necessary for some hands will not do at all for others; but every one should see that their toite necessaries are such as will assist in the care of the hands. If the hand is naturally white and delicate, you have only to guard against temporary disfigurement, such as stains, and that sorons of the content of the care of the intention of the care of the content of the care of the hands. THE PRESIDENT OF THE TERMINAL

The Central System Perfecting New Line, From Richmond, Virginia.

SAVANNAH, Ga., April 14.—[Special.]—The statement that has been printed that there was any difference between General E. P. Alexander, president of the Georgia Central, and Mr. John H. Everybody expected to encounter a safe blower, but imagine their surprise when they found a boy twelve or fifteen years old. He did not seem to be after money, as he was selecting some clothing, watches, give levely, knives, etc. He says his name is Ed. McCauley; that he hails from Augusta, but that he is originally from North Carolina. He secorted himself behind some goods boxes in the store before it was closed for the night, He was promptly placed in jail.

A representative of THE CONSTITUTION called on General Alexander today, and found him busy with the affairs of his company. He says he does not know very much more than has been printed about the Richmond and Danville and the Terminal affairs. He does not seek the place, for he has his hands full. Both sides did confer with him while in New York about it, and he will not accept the presidency unless it is offered without objections and entirely for the purpose of harmonizing the differences.

'No, I did not go to New York for that purnose. I went entirely on business connected with the Georgia Central. My intercourse with Mr. Inman, who is a leading director in my company, is cordial and friendly as far as I know, and there could be no difference between us about the Richmond and Danville as I have absolutely nothing whatever to do with the organization, and have only to make up my mind what to do if the place is offered to me

The real object of my visit to New York was to arrange to fill up a few gaps in this magnificent system, he said, and I am happy to say that it is all arranged satisfactorily, and I will soon commence to build. As it is well known that Macon's water supply is second to none in purity, this resolution threw every one into a fever of excitement, and straightway demanded that an examination be made concerning the information. A notice was sent to the following gentlemen, asking them to meet the committee appointed by council at the chambers this morning at 10 o'clock. Dr. Clifton, Alex. Prondfit, A. E. Boardman, Superintendent Wilcox, Judge Emory Speer, V. N. Gunn and Overseer Locke. The committee were Henry Horne, chairman, and Aldermen Ware and Ingalls; also Dr. F. Walker, chairman of board of health. The meeting was called to order by Chairman Horne, who informed those present that the object of the meeting was to lay before the committee the facts pertaining to Alderman Proudit's resolution.

committee the facts perfaming to Alderman Proudfit's resolution.

Mr. Proudfit opened the investigation by calling upon Judge Speer to state to the com-mittee what he knew concerning the alleged contamination. The judge stated that one af-ternoon in March he rode out to Tutt's springs, which is the initial water supply of the Macon gas and water company, situated three gas and water company, situated three miles from the city. His object in going there miles from the city. His object in going there was to see the source from which came the pure water. But, to his horror, he discovered on a hill slope, about seventy-five yards from the spring, the carcass of some dead animal, which looked like a cow, and which was being devoured by a horde of hogs. And on his approach to the springs, situated on the right of the road, he found that they were surrounded by several pools of water having a bluish discoloration. Also on the hill very year these springs was situated a very large bluish discoloration. Also on the hill very near these springs was situated a very large cattle pen, with large accumulations of manure, which appeared to him that if any hard rain should come, it would wash all the cattle manure down into the springs, and consequently would contaminate the water. He also noticed that whenever it rained the water assumed a milkish color, which certainly looked as if surface water came into the springs in some parager. The springs in ed as if surface water came into the springs in some manner; may be washed down from the hill on which lay the carrion and manure. He thought that all such existences would contaminate the water, and, as a citizen of Macon, would emphatically say that they should be removed. He regretted very much that he had been given this public connection with the matter.

Dr. Clifton was next called upon to give his testimony, which is about as follows: Ever since his residence in Macon he had been in the habit of examining the water with a microscope in order to satisfy his own personal search and that up to about two weeks ago, found the water to be, with one exception,
the purest that he had ever known to exist.
But about that time he discovered organic germs, which certainly proved that something But about that time he discovered organic germs, which certainly proved that something was decidedly wrong. He continued his search, and to his joy, all these disappeared about three days ago. His supposition as to where they came from, was that some animal had fallen into the reservoir, for it would be impossible for these germs to come from the initial source of the springs, because their source was undoubtably in the northern part of the state, coming to this point through part of the state, coming to this point through the Piedmont escarpment, in a natural pipe of kaolin. And that no animal matter could reach the springs from ground surface, unless carried there by rain from off the slope where the cattle pen was situated.

Mr. Will Turpin was also called upon. He

Mr. Will Turpin was also called upon. He stated that several times the water had a disagreeable discoloration, and when first drawn from the hydrant would foam for awhile and then settle, but could give no reason for this.

So I hung around a wifelie and then went to my sixtor. nated with kaolin. This never occurred before the terrible earthquake of eighteen months ago, but afterwards, at periods, became so, these periods coming sometime at night and at other in the daytime. Whenever it came in the day this spring was cut off from the rest, but when it occurred at night it would not be known until day, when it would be.

He also examined the reservoir, never letting four days passing without seeing it as he had a man employed to watch it for him. About two weeks ago he was sent for, as a dead bird has fallen into the reservoir. He immediately went out to the place and got it out. It was not decayed.

Dr. Walker was called upon and stated that as the source of springs came from depths unknown and so intensely protected by kaolin beds, it would be impossible for the cattle peus, stable or anything else to contaminate the waters if the workers.

Bill of Injunction.

Macon, Ga., April 14.—[Special.]—Manager Langdon, and two other parties unknown to the reporter, have advanced $5,000 each in the United States Construction company to build a railroad from Savannah to Macon, known as the Savannah, Dublin and Western railroad, and have filed a bill of injunction before Judge Speer in the United States court in Savannah to enjoin T. B. Branch, of Augusta, from conveying S. B. and W. assets to the Central Railroad and Banking company. It is alleged that the Central railroad desires to bottle up this road and thus to control a monopoly that they already possess. Very serious charges of fraud will be brought against Branch. An injunction has been brought against Central railroad. Case will be heard at an early day. A Contest Settled. In the directory for 1888, the ATLANTA WEEKLY CONSTITUTION leads the nowspapers of America. No weekly edition of any American newspaper is given the rating of A1, which means above one hundred thous-The Toledo Blade has this rating, but subjoined is the sworn statement of its publishers that its circulation for three months reached 106.423, while the circulation of THE CONSTITUTION for the first three months of this year is 122,828. The weekly Courier-Journal, the weekly New York World, and the weekly Tribune, of New York, are quoted at B2, which means exceeding 75,000, but less than 100,000. The Chicago Inter Ocean has the same rating. Nowhere in the union, north, south, east or west, is any paper made equal to THE WEEKLY CONSTITUTION in Rowell's directory. The daily edition of the New York World, of the Chicago News and of the Boston Herald exceed the circulation of THE WEEKLY CONSTITUTION, but with these exceptions no paper, daily or weekly, reaches the eminence of THE CONSTITUTION. In short, a study of this directory shows that THE WEEKLY CONSTITUTION stands head of any weekly edition of any American newspaper, and that but three newspapers exceed its circulation in any edition. We believe Mr. Rowell's figures are correct. As far as THE CONSTITUTION is concerned. we submit the following statement, which is issued from the business office: For the first quarter of 1888 we have circulated 1.598,764 copies, or over one and one-half million copies. This gives a weekly average of 122,828. To verify this we produce the sworn statement of our pressman and manager of our weekly department: Personally appeared before me Edward White, erintendent of weekly department, and John ittaker, pressman of The Constitution, who n oath certify that the circulation of The Weekly (o NSTITUTION for the first three months of 1886 averaged 122,828 copies each issue. JOHN WHITTAKER, Pressman. Sworn to and subscribed before me March 31, 1898 W. F. CRUSSELLE, Notary Public, Fulton County.

We submit the sworn affidavits of these two gentlemen, who have direct charge of the circulation, and who know of their own knowledge that their figures are accurate. We are anxious to submit incontestible proof of the accuracy of their figures to any ne who will do us the favor to call at this office and examine our books, press register, postal accounts and subscription lists.

It is something to be proud of that in Atlanta, Georgia, should have been built up the largest subscription list of any American newspaper. Even those three papers that in their daily edition exceed the circulation of THE WEEKLY CONSTITUTION, the subscription lists are positively small, the bulk of the circulation being made through news companies and news dealers. There is no paper in the country that has such a constituency of cash-paid, yearly subscribers as THE CONSTITUTION. We intend to make It even greater than it is, and to have in Atlanta the largest circulation of any Amer-1can newspaper, either daily or weekly.

The Reading Habit.

Recently, the New Orleans Times-Democrat had an article deploring the fact that couthern authors are more popular at the north than they are at the south. The Macon News, commenting on this fact, suggests that it is due to the lack of money and leisure rather than to a lack of appreciation. and it suggests that literature is a luxury.

There is a good deal of truth in this, and yet it must be conceded that it is a very cheap luxury, being in reach of every person that enjoys books. In the south the love of good books ought to be in the nature of an inheritance, for in this section before the war were to be found the largest private libraries in the country.

But, somehow, all this has been changed The private libraries have disappeared and the reading habit is confined to compara-

There are no busier people in a general way than the northern people, and yet they find opportunities to devote a good deal of time to reading. Perhaps, as the Macon News suggests, the south will follow suit after awhile, but it seems to us that no man can be too poor or too busy to invest a few dollars and a few hours in what has been termed the "pursuit of literature."

DEMOCRATIC success is a big thing for the democratic party, indeed, the biggest thing; but how are the democrats to succeed if they lose New York, Connecticut, and New Jersey? A prompt answer to this

The Giants of Journalism.

American journalism finds its best expression, certainly its widest expansion, in the Sunday editions of the great New York dailies. Neither money nor energy is spared to make them perfect. They spread nto enormous packages of sixteen to forty sheets, and nothing that is good is crowded out. The globe is literally ransacked for features of special interest. Members of rliament contribute original articles: kings and princes are interviewed; artists are sent by scores into strange lands; special expeditions are fitted out; fleets of news ships collect material, and all that money and genius can do to make perfect papers

It is not too much to say that the world does not furnish so broad a field and such wide resources for journalistic competition as is furnished by New York every Sunday morning. What is furnished, then, in the New York papers on Sunday morning represents the perfect flower of journalism on earth. That is, it is the best New York editors can do, with unlimited treasury and almost unlimited space at their disposal. Now, what New York parer prints the best Sunday edition? What editorial corps conceives and creates every Sunday morning the nearest approach to the ideal newspaper? Is it the Herald, the World, the oun, the Tribune, or the Times?

Clearly the editors of those papers could never settle the question. If a consensus of their opinions were obtained on this point it would probably result in one vote apiece all around, which would be a very disjointed consensus. The south has an intelligent daily press Modesty forbids the application of a stronger term, which justice would permit. Its editors read the New York Sunday papers with great care. They read impartially, being journalists enough to feed into the professional fire all personal or political preferences. We have therefore polled the editors of the leading dailies of the south on this important point, and print their answers in another column as they come. It is "naught extenuating and naught setting down in malice." The result of this vote speaks for itself. The opinions of fifty-three editors are given. Nothing that we can say can add to this practical and eloquent testimony. We beg permission to renew our expressions of esteem to Chas. A. Dana, and assure him of our most distinguished consideration. To have beaten such papers as are printed by his competitors before so intelligent and impartial a jury is an honor that should inspire even his aged heart with new ambition and lead him to lift his shining head to higher flights. To the gentlemen who assist Brother Dana and uphold his puissant arms we tender our congratulations.

"There were not more than eighty men present."

These opinions are given without comment and the public can decide whether the estimate of the Banner-Watchman shall be accepted rather than that of THE Constitution, corroborated by the reporters of the five principal state dailies represented there.

In regard to the Banner's statement that one of the leading business men of Athens has stated that there were six voters from his office present at the meeting, and not one of these was approached by THE CON-STITUTION reporter, nor did they express any opinion to anybody," it was ascertained that Colonel J. H. Rucker was the business man referred to Mr Howell we conversing with Colonel Gantt yesterday morning and the above editorial was men tioned. Just at this time Messrs. Dave Jack, Jim Tweedy and C. O. Adams passed. They were three of the voters referred to. Atlanta Put to the Test Again, Atlanta's capacity and hospitality will be put to its utmost test this week. We may not have such a crowd as the big day of the exposition, but the city will be full and running over with strangers.

Gilmore's jubilee on Thursday, Friday and Saturday with the reduced rate on the railroads, will bring train after train loaded down with passengers into the city. Not only will the hotels and boarding houses be crowded, but every private residence that can accommodate guests will be filled. The occasion is a great one. To reproduce the Boston Peace Jubilee in Atlanta, is an achievement that General Gilmore himself never dreamed of when the jubilee was the world's wonder and the world's talk a few years ago, and yet he is now going to accomplish that very thing. The reduced railroad fares make it possible for a man within a hundred miles to come to Atlanta, hear the afternoon concerts and attend one night of the jubilee at a cost of three or four dollars. Excursion parties can run in on the morning train, hear the afternoon concerts at fifty cents, and go back home that night with almost trifling outlay. The three last days of the week will be the greatest days Atlanta has ever seen in the musical world. THERE is a long and hot summer ahead of John Sherman.

The Bicycle Races.

The annual meet of the bicycle club, which takes place at the Piedmont park next Monday and Tuesday, will be the most interesting event of the season, and should be well patronized by our people.

The Atlanta bicycle club deserves great credit for the energy which it has devoted to the work which is now an assured success. Prominent bicyclists from all parts of the south, and several champion amateur riders from the north will be present, and a most interesting series of races will take place both days. There will be six races on the first afternoon, and seven on the next, and among the entries are some of the most prominent

Special facilities for reaching the grounds will be provided by the street car lines, and a most enjoyable afternoon is promised to all who attend. The gates will be opened at two o'clock each day, and the racing will begin promptly at three.

This will be one of the most interesting bicycle meets ever held in the south, and our citizens should turn out in large numbers and encourage the boys by their presence. The proceeds derived from the meet will be devoted to furnishing conveniently located club rooms for the members of the club, and also to provide the members with new uni-That both of these will be fully accomplished there is not the least doubt, as the enhusiasm which the boys have given to the work guarantees a large attendance.

faded suit of historic gray. IT IS SAID THAT 1,000 English engineers offer to come to this country if they are assured of a salary of $1,000 a year for each man. In view of our recent strikes this is significant. But they would have to come and risk it, or they would run against our law against the importation of contract labor.

THE THIRD NUMBER of the Criterion, the new literary fortnightly published in this city, is a great improvement on the first two numbers. In addition to a portrait of the beautiful Miss Amelie Rives, it contains contributions from Dr. Armstrong, Mrs. Felton, Orion Frazee and Alfredo Barili. It also contains a criticism of the works of Colonel Richard Malcolm Johnston by Rev. George Leonard Chaney. The literary department, which is in charge of Mrs. Mel R. Colquitt, is the best and most discriminating to be found in any southern periodical. The poetry of the number is by Charles W. Hubner and Montgomery M.

RELIGIOUS INTELLIGENCE.

The protracted meetings at Hunter street Christian church have continued every night through the past week, except saturday night, with unabated interest and good results. Rev. Newton J. Tumlin preached four evenings consecutively to good audiences, and produced a fine impression upon his hearers that showed tistelf not only in the close attention given him, but by the coming forward of several who made public profession of their faith and who are to be baptized Sunday night (tonight) after the sermon. Mr. Tumlin is remarkable for his humble estimate of his own merits and powers, and his most earnest exaltation and presentation of the merits and power and glory of Christ. He said in one of his sermons, "if God has given to me but one talent, (and nobody knows better than I do, how deficient I am, compared with others, I am not going to wrap it up in a napkin and hide it away until the Master comes and calls for it. No; I'll increase and improve it all I can, and be only too happy if He will graciously accept my poor offering." Making no pretension to superior learning, he showed himself well versed in the scriptures and an earnest, able teacher. Having none of the so-called exaces of oratory, he was at times touchingly and impressively eloquent. He has a style in the pulpit peculiarly his own, and it is effective and bound to do much good. His visit was greatly enjoyed by his brethren, and he will be affectionately remembered by them as a most earnest worker in the Master's vineyard. Dr. T. M. Harris, pastor of the church. much good. His visit was greatly enjoyed by his brethren, and he will be affectionately remembered by them as a most earnest worker in the Master's vineyard. Dr. T. M. Hearts, pastor of the church, will continue the meetings every night this week. He has been requested by members and outsiders to preach on some special themes of leading interest, among them the "Second Coming of Christ," which he will present this morning.

The Rev. H. M. Wharton, who has for the past two weeks been assisting Dr. McDonald in a series of meetings at the Second Baptist church, leaves for Missouri tomorrow morning. Mr. Wharton has greatly endeared himself to a very large circle of Christian people of all denominations, and to many who have never professed conversion. In many respects, these meetings have been the most remarkable of any ever held in Atlanta. Up to date eighty persons have connected themselves with the Second Baptist church since these meetings commenced. It is expected that many others will do so, and no doubt many who have confessed Christ under the influence of these meetings will join other churches in the city. Mr. Wharton will preach at 11 a. m. and at 7:30 p. m. today, and he will, by request, conduct a mass meeting for men and boys only, at 4 p. m. today. To this meeting all men and boys an Invited, but both Mr. Wharton and Dr. McDonald have expressed the desire that the unconverted should be present. Today's services will close Mr. Wharton 's work in Atlanta for the present, and with it these daily meetings will close.

The improvement being due to Liverpool, cables giving Ellison's circular of consumption for March, showing Great Britian's weekly consumption 73,000 and continent 72,000. This is about the largest European consumption on record, and shows that it has been steadily maintained, and is still continuing. The surplus stock of English spinners to the first instant show fifty thousand less, and continental spinners thirty the fluousand less, and continental spinners thirty the fluousand less, and continental spinners thirty the fluousand less than last year. Ellison's also states that with an American crop of six million nine hundred thousand there will be a deficiency of twenty-fluo thousand at the present rate of consumption, if speculation can now be brought into the market, and if the short interest is large an active and better market will be the order. A TRIP TO THE ISLAND.

A Party of Atlantians Visit the Coast-Their Adventures.

Last Monday afternoon a party of Atlanta

The trip was due to the courtesy of Major E. H. Barnes, and the management and direction of the same was entrusted to Captain T. L. Langston.

Brunswick was reached the 10th, and the night was spent at the Oglethorpe house.

The morning of the 12th the party was aboard the steamship City of Brunswick, and in about two hours landed at the Cumberland island wharf, where a small sail boat and an oar boat were in waiting to carry the excursionists out into the sound to fish for drum.

Collector Dart, of Brunswick, accompanied the party, and as the result of the day's sport eight large drum fish, weighting to the first terms of the day's sport eight large drum fish, weighting the first terms of the day's sport eight large drum fish, weighting the first terms of the second se

These boats were in charge of Mr. George Burbanks, a well known and skillful boatman residing on the island. As one of the boats was passing the wharf, at noon, on the way to a new fishing point, two of the party desired to land, and as the tide was out it could only be accomplished by climbing a plank. desired to land, and as the tide was out it could only be accomplished by climbing a plank almost perpendicular from the boat to the top of the dock. One of them being fleshy had to "coon it," and created much amusement for the party, besides coming very near a drenching. The night was spent at Bunckley's hotel on the island, and the next day was passed in hunting and fishing. The hunt was very successful, and one very handsome gentleman of the party was seized by two strong men and drenched in the blood of his victim, though he persistently asserted that though he persistently asserted that he had killed one before, but could not furnish satisfactory proof.

he had killed one before, but could not furnish satisfactory proof.

During the stay on the island Mr. Bunkley, the proprietor, did all in his power to make the visit a pleasant one. He is making several improvements for the guests this summer, one great one is an iron track from the landing to the beach so that all can enjoy pleasant rides. This track will be ready about the ist of May. The night of the 12th the party returned to Brunswick, and all the necessary arrangements having been made by Mr. Dart, at 9 o'clock sailed in the tug boat "Inca," Captain W. M. Tupper, for the red snapper banks on the Florida coast, off Fernandina. The night was stormy and the captain decided not to put to sea, and on reaching St. Simond's light tied to sea, and on reaching St. Simond's light tied up for the night. At daylight the vessel put to sea and reached the snapper banks—the same being ascertained by sounding—about 9 o'clock. The fishing tackle was all ready and o'clock. The fishing tackle was an ready and the hooks were cast into the sea, and then withdrawn for a change of place, and cast again. At this time the wind began stiffening, and in a few minutes there was a terrific northeast gale, which lasted for five hours. The captain of the ship decided at once to make for the harbor at Fernandina, and in about two hour's sail, through an extremely rough and dangerous sea, reached the bar, and rough and dangerous sea, reached the bar, and found that the ship drew too much water to enter. He then decided to make for St. Andrew's bar, about twenty miles off. This was a dangerous undertaking, but the only hope, and with many doubts as to whether the bar could be crossed there. During this run, which was the rough. there. During this run, which was the roughest ever experienced by the party, the water ran over the lower deck and at times went ran over the lower deck and at times went upon the upper deck. It seemed when the boat went down in the trough of the sea that there was no possible hope for her to stand it; but she would certainly be lost, and it would have been but for its stannenness and the skill of its officers. St. Andrew's bar was reached at 2:30 o'clock, and the boat crossed the bar and was safe. As the boat sailed into smooth water, the entire party felt a sense of relief which is indescribable. During the gale all were seasick except Captain Langston, Mr. Block, Mr. Hemphill and Dr. Turner. The boat was not fitted for passengers, and had only two berths. Consequently the floor was covered with the seasick men, and some ludicrous scenes were presented—grave and dignications. covered with the seasics men, and some functions scenes were presented—grave and dignified gentlemen ceased walking, and when it was necessary to move, crawled from one place to another. Many resolves were made never to sail the seasagain. Truly the "blow" never to sail the seasagain. Truly the "blow" was a very dangerous one; but the hope of the party was kept up by confidence in the strength of the boat, and they felt the sentiment of the poet who said:

"Let billows top to mountain heights, Or sink to chasms low.
The vessel stout will ride it out,
Nor reel beneath the blow."

The vessel reached Brunswick about six o'clock, and at $1.30 o'clock the party took the o clock, and at 5:30 o clock the party took the train, reaching home yesterday morning. Mr. Conkling's Condition. NEW YORK, April 14 .-- Advices from Mr. New York, April 14.—Advices from Mr. Conking's sick room up to 10 o'clock tonight are vaguely encouraging for the present and hopeful for the morrow. The physicians, with the exception of one watcher, had left the house for the night. Dr. Agnew, one of Mr. Conkling's physicians, continues in a more critical condition than his patient. But neither of them have very good exception for 116. FOUR MORE DAYS

Until the Opening Day of the Great Gilmore Jubilee.

w of the Main Exposition Building as It Will Appear for the Jubile Many Points of Interest.

The coming Gilmere jubilee is the thing. Everybody is talking about it and next Thursday, Friday and Saturday will be great musical days for Atlanta.

The main exposition building is undergoing extensive changes for the accommodat the great event. The north end of the ing is to be used for the stage end. All of that and up to the edge of the gallery is being partitioned off for dressing rooms for the large chorus, the members of the band and the prima donnas and other artists. Then running from the gallery rail to the main floor come the rising seats for the chorus of over 300 people. In front of them the band and artists will require 24 feet space, the full width between the side galleries. Immediately in front of the band on the main floor, and also on the first cross gallery, are to be placed the seats to be reserved

$1.50. The cross gallery will have one row of chairs next to the railing and two elevated rows back, affording an excellent view of stage and audience. Tier of chairs will be placed the full length of the side galleries, which will be very desirable seats, at $1.50 each. The side seats down stairs, under the galleries, will be sold at $1.25 each, and all other reserved The general admission has been placed at $1.00.

The building will present a grand appearance, decorated with flags, and filled with the handsome gentlemen and beautiful ladies of Atlanta and vicinity, the gay chorus of three hundred voices or more, Gilmore's band of a half hundred of the best instrumental the world, and in the center of all, the and venerable Gilmore; that man of all musicians who has ever been in the good service of advancing and encouraging musical interests all over America; who has taken the common brass band of a half century ago and evolved the present high grade military band, one of the most resulter of public and the contract of the most resulter of public and the contract of the most resulter of public and the contract of the most resulter of public and the contract of the most resulter of public and the contract of the one of the most popular of public amusements and a necessity to the music loving people of the hemisphere; that Gilmore whose breast is loaded down with the weight of medals of greatest intrinsic value, presented to him by governments, societies and music admiring communities all over the world as trophies

Outside the building, pointing over the bank to the eastward, will be seen the six beautiful bronze cannon, which are used to punctuate the emphatic music of the anvil chorus and some other pieces of m These guns are connected by a six circularic cable with a board of electric keys band stage, from where they are fired in per-fect time with the music.

The programmes have not yet arrived, so the exact nature of the entertainments cannot be announced, but such of Gilmore's successe as the several Wagner overtures, the William have not yet arrived, so Tell overture, Semeramide overture, Liszt's Hungarian Rhapsodie, Rubenstein's Valse Caprice, Gottschalk's Last Hope, Mendels-sohn's Roudo Capprioso, the famous Pizzicato polka, the Owl Clubs' Patrol, Pay-day On a outhern Plantation, and many others will no doubt be given.

That the success of these pieces lie largely in Gilmore's interpretations of them, there can be little doubt. His band is the best organized body of instrumental artists in the world, and they can play any picco of music ever written, at sight; but without Gilmore to put his baton world. at sight; but without Gilmore to put his baten marks on it, no piece could meet with the success it has, as played by his band under his direction. This is said to be very noticeable at his band rehearsals, which, as told by those who have been fortunate enough to see Gilmore at a rehearsal, are most interesting events. He will explain to the members just what he see in explain to the members just what he sees in the piece poetically. If it is a lullaby, he tells giving them the rocking motion and dreamy effect which they must imitate dreany effect which they must imitate with their music. If a battle or storm sentiment, ho demonstrates with what fire and snaps it must be treated. So he goes through, impressing every shade upon them, and then they play it under his baton just as he wants it. There is great inspiration in his very presence. So thoroughly is his band in training and so elete his control that it seems and is just the man playing upon a large organ with pression, explosion, etc.

The chorus under Professor Salter's instructhe week in hand. Three more rehearsals are to be held, and their singing will be something magnificent to hear. The vocal artists who will come with Mr. Gilmore are of first rank throughout and they will give a delightful variety of vocal numbers in addition to the work of the band and chorus.

work of the band and chorus.

THE CHORUS REHEARSALS AND TICKETS.
The members of the chorus will get their chorus membership tickets at the rehearsal at 7:30 Monday evening.

Every member of the chorus must have one of these tickets to be exchanged later on for the chorus admission ticket.

The list of singers is closed, but if any singers of known ability have not entered and desire to do so, an opertunity will be given them sire to do so, an opportunity will be given them on Monday. There are but three more reshearsals and it is absolutely necessary that every member of the chorus attend each one of these.

The seat sale will open Tuesday morning at Matthews, Gregory & Co.'s drug store.

Arrangements for reaching the building from the city will be as complete and satisfactory as they were at the exposition last fail.

The exposition building will be large enough to accommodate the largest crowd, but there will be a rush, of course, for the choice reserved seets. Perhaps no one aria ever written has attained greater popularity among all classes of musical people than "The Lost Chord," which will be sing by Mile. Mellini. It is one of those happy inspirations which seem destined to live until the last manshall be called to hear "The Sound of the Great Amen."

With an enthusiasm more creditable to their appreciation of good music than to their consideration for the participants, the audience encored nearly every number. The concert was very enjoyable and the work of the band of a high order of musical merit. Mr. Gilmore has his organiz-tion. In fine control and leads it with ease and precision.—Washington (D. C.) Star.

The little E flat clarionet is one of the most difficult and unsympathetic in the whole range of musical instruments upon which to play a solo; but Herr Matus, of Gilmore's band, has conquered the awful little squealer, and made it bend to his will-a feat which his brother musicians regard as requiring nothing less than a high order of genius to accomplish. His execution is somewhat marvelous.

"The singing of Mme. Tanner showed that she is a musician, and she sang the Mozart aria with faultless accuracy. Her voice is a genuine soprano to which there would seem to be no limit, and her facility of execution is remarkable. It is hoped that this lady, having made such a favorable impression before an exceptionally musical audience, will be soon heard in New York again."—The Keynote, New York.

Next to the president and a few eminent noite. note, New York.

Next to the president and a few eminent pollticians, Gilmore is about the most universally known figure in the country. He is also widely and highly honored in the old world. He is the only musician who ever dared to take an American band across the water, and he astonished Europe by demonstrating that their bands were nowhere in comparison with the one he introduced to their surprised attention. Such encomium as he received from the European press are among the brightest of his diadems of glory.

Liszt's second Hungarian Rhapsodie will be given by the band at one of its cesso. Its performance by them in London, Dublin, Paris, Brussels, Berlin, Leipsie, and other great citics of Europe created a perfect furore, European military bands, to whom it was a revelation, had never attempted the performance of this class of works, and the European press most heartily and graciously gave the American band the credit of doing more for the advancement of music among military bands in their short visit, than had been accomplished in fifty years before.

The blind bigamist is in jail. Yesterday Judge Tanner's courtroom was crowded with people gathered to witness the trial of the blind man Fleming, quite a number of ladies being present. Fleming disap-pointed the crowd though by simply waiving examination. Judge Tanner fixed his bond at $2,000 and the blind man couldn't give it and "I believe you can see." remarked Pat Owens bluntly. "How could you tell just now when those reporters were writing?"

"They never stopped talking except to write;" explained Fleming, "and it was easy enough to tell when they stopped talking. Then a blind man soon learns to see with his hands and his "cars, and sometimes I know things are happening" and I really don't know how I know it. I just feel it."

He talked freely about his first wife and upon general subjects, but when questioned closely about himself he would answer simply, "I don't want to say anything about that," or "never mind about that." He has evidently lost all admiration that he may have once had for wife No. 1.

FOUR MORE DAYS

Until the Opening Day of the Great Gilmore Jubilee.

View of the Main Exposition Building as It Will Appear for the Jubilce-Many Points of Interest.

Everybody is talking about it and next Thursday, Friday and Saturday will be great musical days for Atlanta.

cal days for Atlanta.

The main exposition building is undergoing extensive changes for the accommodation of the great event. The north end of the building is to be used for the stage end. All of that ing is to be used for the stage end. All of that end up to the edge of the gallery is being partitioned off for dressing rooms for the large chorus, the members of the bard and the prima donnas and other artists. Then running from the gallery rail to the main floor come the rising seats for the chorus of over 300 people. In front of them the band and artists will require 24 feet space, the full width between the side galleries. Immediately in front of the band on the main floor, and also on the first cross gallery.

main floor, and also on the first cross gallery, are to be placed the seats to be reserved at

Immediately in front of the band on the main floor, and also on the first cross gallery, are to be placed the seats to be reserved at $1.50. The cross gallery will have one row of chairs next to the railing and two elevated rows back, affording an excellent view of stage and audience. Tier a row of chairs will be placed along the the full length of the side galleries, which will be very desirable seats, at $1.50 each. The side seats down stairs, under the galleries, will be very desirable seats, at $1.50 each. The side seats down stairs, under the galleries, will be very desirable seats, at $1.50 each. The been placed at $1.00.

The building will present a grand appearance, decorated with flags, and filled with the handsome gentlemen and beautiful ladies of Atlanta and vicinity, the gay chorus of three hundred voices or more, Gilmore's band of a half hundred of the best instrumentalists in the world, and in the center of all, the gallant and venerable Gilmore; that man of all musicians who has ever been in the good service of advancing and encouraging musical interests all over America; who has taken the common brass band of a half century ago and evolved the present high grade military band, one of the most popular of public ammaements and a necessity to the music loving people of the hemisphere; that Gilmore whose breast is loaded down with the weight of medals of greatest intrinsic value, presented to him by governments, societies and music admiring communities all over the world as trophies of his great musical successes and as evidences of his great musical successes and as evidences of his anbounded popularity.

Outside the building, pointing over the bank to the eastward, will be seen the six beautiful bronze cannon, which are used to punctuate the emphatic music of the and stage, from where they are fired in perfect time with the music.

These great musical successes and as evidences of his great musical successes and as circuit electric cable with a board of electric keys on the band stage, from where polka, the Owl Clubs' Patrol, Pay-day On a southern Plantation, and many others will no doubt be given.

That the success of these pieces lie largely in Gilmore's interpretations of them, there can be little doubt. His band is the best organized body of instrumental artists in the world, and they can play any piecof music ever written, at sight; but without Gilmore to put his baton marks on it, no piece could meet with the success it has, as played by his band under his direction. This is said to be very noticeable at his band rehearsals, which, as told by those who have been fortunate enough to see Gilmore at a rehearsal, are most interesting events. He will explain to the members just what he sees in 'the piece poetically. If it's a lullaby, he tells them how a mother soothes her babe to sleep, giving them the rocking motion and soft dreamy effect which they must imitate with their music. If a battle or storm sentiment, he demonstrates with what fire and snaps it must be treated. So he goes through, impressing every shade upon them, and then they play it under his baton just as he wants it. There is great inspiration in his very presence.

So thoroughly is his band in training and so complete his control that it seems and is just like one man playing upon a large organ with perfect precision and accurate shading, expression, explosion, etc.

The chorus under Professor Salter's instruction has made remarkable progress and are wick about six to party took the ymerning. The will long be redon was given a W. L. Calhoan, will compare to be held, and their singing will be something magnificent to hear. The vocal artists who will come with Mr. Gibarro examples to the control of the week in hand.

THE CHORUS REHEARSALS AND TICKETS.
The members of the chorus will get their chorus membership tickets at the rehearsal at 7:30 Monday evening.
Every member of the chorus must have one of these tickets to be exchanged later on for the chorus admission ticket.

The seat sale will open Tuesday morning at Matthews, Gregory & Co. s drug store.

Arrangements for reaching the building from the city will be as complete and satisfactory as

Supply and Consumption of Cotton-The Present Outlook New Orleans, April 11.—To Commercial Editor of The Times-Democrat: Dear Sir—I beg your permission to offer the following remarks on the present outlook as to supply and consumption of

To the end of November this crop came forward To the end of November this crop came forward more rapidly, in proportion to its size, than any former crop, but since that date its movement has been unusually retarded, partly by the weather and partly by the fact that the market has recently been dull and lifeless, and country holders had no inducement to ship, especially as their most trusted advisers continued to hold out hope of ultimately seeing much higher prices. Cotton, therefore, has of late moved slowly to the ports, and, as a consequence, the stocks in the counted interior towns are now more than double what they were this date last. now more than double what they were this date las

N iw, it has been found in a series of years that the quantity of cotton still to come in from plantations and unenumerated towns after April 1 is invariably more or less, according as the stocks on that day at more or less, according as the stocks on that day at the counted towns are greater or less. This is natural. The influences which induce holding at one point have the same effect elsewhere. The unenumerated towns are growing in importance and power every year, and planters are but men, and are governed in their action as to selling or holding (after half the season is over) by the same impulses which govern other men. This is the theory of it, and has been found in all former years to be the experience, with slight modifications, of course, based on other influences, special to the particular year. It will influences, special to the particular year. It will, therefore, be only reasonable to expect that that cot-ton coming into sight after April I will be consider-ably in excess of that which appeared last year. According to the Chroniele, the amount in sight on April 1 last year was 6,156,000 baies, and, therefore, 357,000 bales came in afterward to make its crop of 6,513,000. The amount in sight on April 1 this year is 6,546,000 bales. Add to the above (same as last year), 357,000 bales; add for probable excess here after, say only 97,000 bales, and you get a crop of 6,513,000. The amount in sight on April 1 this year; as 6,546,000 bales; add for probable excess hereafter, say only 97,000 bales, and you get a crop of 7,000,000 bales.

There is no sound reasoning against this argument, except a possible smail August movement, but last year? August receipts, after all, were only 61,000 bales, and if we throw that out altogether we only get down to about 6,350,000. As we are quite sure to get some cotton in August we cannot be much out of the way in basing our further calculations on a crop of 7,000,000.

The distribution of the crop has been curious and illustrates strikingly the difference of opinions as to the crop prevailing during the season on the two sides of the ocean. American spinners, carried away by the false estimates, bought very heavily in November and December, and according to the Chronicle, had taken up to January 18, 285,000 bales more than to same date last year, stimulated, no doubt by active markets and immense profits on their goods, print clotis having advanced 34 cent.

During the same period Europe, while cotton had only advanced 1 cent.

During the same period Europe, while cotton had only advanced 1 cent.

During the same period Europe, which had been better advised about the crop; bought mor. sparingly, the exports to all Europe up to January 13 snowing an excess of only 80,000 bales, compared to last year. Since that date the change of feeling on the crop question has produced a very marked decrease in activity, both on the part of American and European spinners and the present excess taken by American spinners is only 115,000 bales, while to last year, up to April 1, of 142,000 bales, while to last year, up to April 1, of 142,000 bales, and it is doubtful, fit they will more than make up this denit, which would bring their takings to last year, or to April 1, of 142,000 bales, and it is doubtful, if they will more than make up this deficit, which would bring their takings to last year figures of 1,70,000, which, deducted from total exports of 370

Canadian Catarrh Cure Co.:

Gentlamen—My wife was a great sufferer with Catarrh for over two years. She has been a little troubled ever since she was a child with the disease. About two years ago we were in Mississippl, and while there she was taken down with catarrhal fever; we had three of the best physicians we could get. They broke the fever and left her the worst case of catarrh of the hoad I ever saw. Her nose ran profusely, and for a year I despaired of her ever getting well. I tried several doctors and they could not cure her, and used every catarrh remedy I could hear of. I spent over $50 the past year for remedies, and all to no effect. At last it became so offensive that you could hardly remain where she was. I offered $1,000 to any doctor who would cure her (and that would have left us homeless), but I would not have cared for that if she could only be cured. We saw an advertisement in the Atlanta Constitution of "Canadian Catarrh Cure." and thought we would try it, and wentto your office, when you gave my wife a small sample bottle of your remedy, and told us to come and get a large bottle when that was out. I bought the large bottle, and before she had used all of the bottle she was entirely well, and her health fully restored, and now does more work than any woman I know. She used the medicine over six months ago, and there has not been the sightest return or the disease. I hope everybody that has catarrh may find you and be cured. I am a traveling man and have told a great many of your wonderful cure. Yours truly,

Everybody Drinks Malto.

Safe, permanent and complete are the cures of bilious and intermittent diseases, made by Prickly Ash Bitters. Dyspepsia, general debility, habitual constipation, liver and kidney complaints are speedily cradicated from the system. It disinfects, cleanses and eliminates all malaria. Health and vigor are obtained more rapidly and permanently by the use of this great natural antidote than by any other remedy heretofore known. As a blood purifier and tonic it brings health, renewed energy and vitality to a worn and diseased body.

Roused from Inaction

The precursor of their disease and destruction the kidneys and bladder healthfully stimu-lated and toned with Hostetter's Stomach Bright's disease, diabetes, catarrh of the Bright's disease, diabetes, catarrh of the bladder and encuresis are prevented. For irritating diuretics, and those unmedicated and fiery stimulants which, used even in moderation, excite both the renal and vesical organs, this is the best possible substitute. It is of botanic composition, and so congenial to the stomach, the digestive processes of which it helps in no ordinary degree, that it is promptly assimilated by the system, and its tonic effects are speedily felt. Not only does it remedy inactivity of the kidneys, but renews a regular habit of body, promotes a due secretion and healthy flow of bile into the proper channels, and expels from the circulation acrid principles productive of rheumatism and gout. It is also the leading specific for malarial complaints.

A MASS MEETING.

Will Select Delegates to the State Convention.

Executive Committee Which Adopts a Resolution to That Effect.

The Fulton county democratic executive committee assembled in the basement of the county courtbouse at 12 o'clock yesterday.

These members were present: Messrs. C. A. Collier, chairman; A. Green, James Walsh, J. J. Barnes, H. F. Scott, W. K. Booth, Z. H. Smith, R. J. Griffin, A. Culberson, West End; H. L. Wilson, W. R. Brown and Samuel Abernathy, of Oak Grove.

Chairman Collier presided and Mr. R. J. Griffin acted as secretary.
Chairman Collier said: "Gentlemen, seven members constitute a quorum, and as there is a quorum present we will proceed to business. You are called upon to decide whether this committee shall call a meeting to select delegates for the May convention or for both the May or August conventions."

The following resolution was offered by Mr. Walter Brown:

Walter Brown:
Resolved, That a mass meeting of the democratic voters of Fulton county is hereby called to assemble in the basement of the county chourthouse on the evening of Thursday, May 3d, 1888, at 7:30 o clock for the purpose of selecting delegates to the democratic convention which meets in Atlanta on May 8th, 1888, to name delegates to the national democratic convention. Mr. Booth moved to amend by making the time of meeting 12 m. on Tuesday, the 1st of May, in order that the country people might would be better to fix the time at night so that the working people in the city can come out in full force.

Mr. Culberson said: "I would like to know why the time of the mass meeting should be set for the 3rd instead of the 1st of May, which is the day the state executive committee recommended and the day on which most of the counties will select delegates." He moved to amend by making the date. May let

Mr. Cluberson's message they would so vote. The tariff question he thought would be in amount of the democrate in Georgia and on the tariff and the state either way it will prevent any contest over the question in Folton county, if the meeting shall be held two days later, when the sentiment of the people will be known."

Mr. Culberson didn't believe that the democrats of Fulton county were going to be led by anybody—that if a majority of them favored Mr. Cleveland's message they would so vote. The tariff question he thought would be ignored in the mass meeting. He insisted on his amendment.

Mr. Culberson's amendment was voted down.

Customhouse. Collector Crenshaw has been very busy during the past week signing special tax stamps for the tax year beginning May 1st, 1888. On the 16th of April he will commence to issue these stamps. There will be fifty or sixty thousand dollars worth of them to issue, and all the division deputy collectors have been supplied with stamps so that every tax payer will be enabled to procure stamps with-out unnecessary delay.

IN THE COURTS. What Was Done Yesterday in the Different

Courts-Points of Interest. The United States court was not in session meet again Monday. A jury will be drawn in the district court Monday for criminal business to be taken up the first Monday in June. The trial of the counterfeiters now in jail will begin tomorrow.

The Supreme Court.

Yesterday was an "off day" in the supreme court. The Atlanta circuit will be resumed Monday. In the County Courts. Judgo Marshall J. Clarke heard several cases in chambers yesterday, and reversed his decision in the James matter which was heard last Saturday. It had been left to him to construe the contract between Mr. and Mrs. John H. James and the stockhoiders of the Central bank block. He decided that the construction given by Mr. James was substantially correct. This is regarded as a victory for Mr. James and settles the dispute about the property.

The Criminal Court.

A MASS MEETING.

Will Select Delegates to the State Convention.

Meeting of the Fulton County Democrat Executive Committee Which Adopts a Resolution to That Effect.

The Fulton county democratic executive committee assembled in the basement of the county courtbouse at 12 o'clock yesterday. These members were present: Messrs. C.
A. Collier, chairman; A. Green, James Walsh, J. J. Barnes, H. F. Scott, W. K,

Booth, Z. H. Smith, R. J. Griffin, A. Culberson, West End; H. L. Wilson, W. R. Brown son, West End; H. L. Wilson, W. R. Brown and Samuel Abernathy, of Oak Grove.

Chairman Collier presided and Mr. R. J. Griffin acted as secretary.
Chairman Collier said: "Gentlemen, seven members constitute a quorum, and as there is a quorum present we will proceed to business. You are called upon to decide whether this committee shall call a meeting to select delegates for the May convention or for both the May or August conventions."
The following resolution was offered by Mr. Walter Brown:

The following resolution was obered by Mr. Walter Brown:
Resolved, That a mass meeting of the democratic voters of Fulton county is hereby called to assemble in the basement of the county chourthouse on the evening of Thursday, May 3d, 1888, at 7:30 o'clock for the purpose of selecting delegates to the democratic convention which meets in Atlanta on May 8th, 1888, to name delegates to the national democratic convention.

mr. Booth moved to amend by making the time of meeting 12 m. on Tuesday, the 1st of May, in order that the country people might attend. ttend.
Mr. Criffin said he thought the country people would not come at noon, and thought it would be better to fix the time at night so that the working people in the city can come Mr. Culberson said: "I would like to know why the time of the mass meeting should be set for the 3rd instead of the 1st of May, which is the day the state executive commit-tee recommended and the day on which most of the counties will select delegates." He moved to amend by making the date May 1st

Mr. Brown—"On the 1st of May a sufficient Mr. Brown—"On the 1st of May a sufficient number of counties will not act to indicate how the majority of the democrats in Georgia stand on the tariff question. If there is a decided majority in the state either way it will prevent any contest over the question in Fulton county, if the meeting shall be held two days later, when the sentiment of the people will be known."

Mr. Culberson didn't believe that the democrate of Fulton county were going to be led by Mr. Culberson didn't beneve that the demo-crats of Fulton county were going to be led by anybody—that if a majority of them favored Mr. Cleveland's message they would so vote. The tariff question he thought would be ig-nored in the mass meeting. He insisted on his amendment.

Mr. Culberson's amendment was voted down.

Mr. Brown's resolution was then adopted after which the committee adjourned.

A YOUNG MAN MISSING.

Sad Disappearance of Mr. Herbert Gentry-The Circumstances of the Case.

Mr Herbert Gentry, who has been ill for a short time past, at the residence of his brother, Mr. W. T. Gentry, suffering from physical exhaustion and mental aberration, due to overwork, is missing. He had just recovered suffi-ciently to allow him to walk about the city, and it is feared that he has strayed in a direc-tion not familiar to him, and cannot find his way home. He left home on Friday morning, and since then nothing has been heard of him. Mr. Gentry has been in the habit of taking long walks, frequently going out Peachtree street and Peachtree road, and it is supposed that he has gone in that direction.

Mr. Gentry is a young man about 22 years of age, walks perfectly erect, with his head thrown back, and a black derby hat on the back of his head; about 5 feet 8½ inches tall, slender. light complexion, with hair that has grown grey during his recent illness; smooth face, blue eyes, and features pinched by his illness. When last seen wore dark suit of clothing, sack coat. He has always been called Herbert. Talks well, and would probably appear perfectly rational to anyone whom he

Any person who can furnish any information concerning his present whereabouts would confer a great favor upon his family by reporting to Mr. W.T. Gentry, manager of the telephone exchange, or at his residence, 155 East Simpson street, near Spring. All expense of oringing such information, caring for the young man until his relatives can reach him, or bring-ing him to the city will be cheerfully borne by Mr. W. T. Gentry.

The United States court was not in session yesterday. The circuit or district court was not in session in the district court Monday for criminal business to be taken up the first Monday in June. The trial of the counterfeiters now in jail will begin tomorrow.

Yesterday was an "off day" in the supreme court. The Atlanta circuit will be resumed Monday.

In the County Courts.

Judge Marshall J. Clarke heard soveral cases in chambers yesterday, and reversed his decision in the James matter which was heard last Saturday. It had been left to him to construct be contract between Mr. and Mrs. John H. James and the stockhoiders of the Central bank block. He decided that the construction given by Mr. James was substantially correct. This is regarded as a victory for Mr. James and settles the dispute about the property. The criminal branch of the superior court, Judge Richard H. Clark presiding, was occupied from 9 o'clock in the morning till 4 in the afternoon, hearing the case of the state vs. Elbert Ware for murder. Colonel N. J. Hammond spoke for the defendant, and Solicitor-General Hill spoke for the prosecution. The fairney and keenly discriminating. A CORNER LOT.

That is What is Desired by Those Living on Peachtree,

As Well as Those Out on Washington Street-We Will See Who Will Get It -A Chance Not to be Missed.

The question is frequently asked in Atlanta. 'How can I get a corner lot at a reason able price?" That question is easily answered and it don't take long to do it, either. There are many things, however, that a fellow must have before he is prepared to buy a corner lot-plenty of cash-then he can get one at a onable price.

The all absorbing question with the most of mankind is how and when to get the cash to pay for them. That question is easily answered also, and any fellow that knows anything about Atlanta can tell you, go to The Place, 10 Marietta street and buy your goods. By doing that you will save enough money in a very short time to buy not only one corner lot but several of them. Why? Because these goods are so cheap that it does not take a small fortune to set you up in the horse-furnishing in stationery, blankbooks, inks and novelties. To do that, be sure and get The Place's prices, as well as a pair of its spectacles and eye-glasses. Their optical instruments are as good as to be found in Atlanta. They are the BRAZILIAN AXIS CUT PEBBLES.

Heretofore the Brazilian Axis Cut Pebble spectacles and eye glasses have been so high in price, that none but the wealthy could enjoy the great benefits derived from their use. By our process of slitting them into slabs with diamond saws, instead of using the copper wire and emery as others do, we are enabled to make a superior article and reduce the price so that they are within the reach of all. They are a natural stone, almost as hard as a diamond, take a high polish, will not scratch, nor will moisture collect on them in warm weather.

They confer a brilliancy and a distinctness of vision, with an amount of ease and comfort not hitherto enjoyed by spectacle wearers. They neutralize and prevent the irritating rays of light from entering the eye. They improve, strengthen and preserve the sight, thereby resting the optic nerves and invery many cases preventing headache. On account of the purity of the material of which they are made, they cause no dizziness or wavering of sight. EVERY PAIR WARRANTED.

The common, inferior spectacles, which are sold and bought, regardless of their quality or accuracy, are made from inferior material or imperfect lenses discarded from better grades, they stimulate, heat, irritate and fatigue the eye, they refract the rays of light unequally and fail to correct all optical defects.

To those who are troubled night or day with imperfect vision, we ask a trial of these wonderful spectacles; they are cheerfully shown to hose who wish to see. Yes, you can get these spectacles at The Place, 10 Marietta street,

Suburban Homes and Farms. "Ormewood," just two and a half miles from the Kimball house, was at one time among the most ous Jersey farms in Georgia. It contained 160 acres. Two immense barns, a large silo, and several dwellings and a commodious spring house, with every convenience for a dairy, all arranged at great cost to the owner. The land was found from stumps and made rich, and the owner aftewards sold all of it except the thirty-six acres which Samuel W. Goode & C. sell at continuous transfer of the same of t it except the thirty-six acres which Samuel W.

Goode & Co. sell at auction next Wednesday afternoon. This part of the place was reserved because it was the most desirable, being almost level, with fine road fronts all around it, with half in beautiful woods, and half in fine clover and grass, and supplied with water from several bold face stone springs.
These thirty-six acres are now divided into six tracts, containing from two to seven acres each and as they are already in a very high state of cultivation, inclosed with good wire fence, and surrounded by such good neighbors as Robert Winship, Fred Kolb, W. C. Sanders, Mrs. Holbrook and o hrs. there is a great demand for them, and the sale next Wednosday will be largely attended, especially as free conveyances are provided by Samuel W. Goo'e & Co., from their office. The owner has acted wisely in making the terms of sale only one-third cash, the balance in one and two years, with interest, as this will make it possible for many persons to buy one or more of these small tracts, who might otherwise not bid. It is no longer doubted that Atlanta suburban property is the safest and best paying investment to be had, and we predict that the sale of Ormewood, next Wednesday, will verify the statement.

THE GROWING CITY.

North Georgia's Great Mineral Wealth.

Attracting the Attention of Capitalists All Over the Country-"Keeps Your Eye on Rome."

This is what THE CONSTITUTION said a year ago—"Keep your eye on Rome." This is what THE CONSTITUTION says today, and this is what THE CONSTITUTION will say a year hence, after which the eye of the country will not require to be pointed to Rane. A city fully alive to its varied natural advantages and resources as is Rome will press to the vantages and resources as is Rome will press to the front rank in the race to future greatnes. We are proud of Rome and her spirit of enterprise, and we take pleasure in commen ling other cities to the example set by her people. Within the last year she has put into various local industrial movements and caterprises over a haif million dollars, and without the flourish that usually accompanies such undertakings, she has proceeded in a deliberate business-like way to develop her resources. having first, as a preway to develop her resources, having first, as a pre-requisite, started one of the best newspapers in the state—the Tribune of Rome—which was put under the brilliant editorial management of Colonel J. T. Graves, recently of Jacksonville, Fla., and having Graves, recently of Jacksonville, Fla., and having provided for the construction of a hotel, now nearly completed, the size and architectural design of which would do credit to any city of a quarter of a million of people. Iron and manganese properties are being opened up throughout Floyd county, of which Rome is the county seat, and the opinions of experts agree that the county contains ample supply of these ores to run ten furnee's a thousand years, and, as we recently said in an article on the "precious metals," "in such quality as caunot be found in Alabama or Tennessee." The new reilroads soon to be completed to Rome will give her seven railroad outlets, besides her two navigable rivers, affording her unexpelled registy existing a december of the said seat of the control of the control of the county of the control des her two navigable rivers, affording her u besides her two navigable rivers, affording her un-excelled treight facilities, and open up vast fields of the best virgin timbers. At the exposition last fall, in this city, Floyd county took the first prize for the fullest and best display of mineral and forest pro-ducts. She also took the $1.000 grand prize for the best agricultural products and forty other prizes, in-cluding, if our memory is not at fault, for cotton, for corn, oats, wheat, rye, barley, potatoes, hay, grapes, domestic wines, for best Jersey cattle, horses, etc. But it is not necessary to write of these domestic wines, for best Jersey cattle, horses, etc. But it is not necessary to write of these things. Floyd county has long been recognized as one of the richest counties in the state. But the attention of the world has only of recent date been called to her vast riches in the metals, marble, state, etc. In fact, the value of the whole of north Georgia properties, including lands in Bartow, Polk, Chattooga, Floyd and other counties, are just beginning to be correctly estimated alongside of lands in north Alabama. On this line Mr. Jefferson M. Levy, of New York, president of the East and

M. Levy, of New York, president of the East and West railroad in Alabama, in our issue of yesterday, utters the popular opinion of most thinking business men and investors. He says: "I tell you what it is. I do not think there is a town in north Georgia and north Alabama in which, if a man can invest at anywhere near fair prices, he will not get within a very few years the biggest kind of return. I have the greatest faith in all the section of which I speak, and believe the facts war rant my having such faith." Rome is happly located in the midst of the iron region of north Georgia, and now, having buckled on the armor, she will come to the front.

TO THE POINT!

Another season has come upon us, bringing with it new ideas, new fabrics, new fashions, and a desire for something different-in fact, a complete change from all things pertaining to former seasons.

Call attention, with just pride to every one of their numerous departments, each complete in itself, presenting the Most Perfect collection of new, beautiful merchandise for everybody ever shown by one house in the south. We could make many claims, but we care for no claims but one, and that is that

This advantage is all-sufficient for any intelligent buyer, and it has had its effect, as noticeable in the immense crowds our announcements are attracting. We guarantee to show more intelligent and decided Bargains throughout our Stocks than any house this side of Philadelphia.

Two Lines of Dress Goods, Embroideries, Wash Goods. 5 cent Collars and Cuffs for ladies. One lot of 5 cent Laces, Dwelling on these points would do no good. What you want is to see the articles and know that the prices are genuine. They are genuine! It would pay anybody to travel 100 miles to see what we offer. The above mentioned leaders we bank on no more than other things in stock, but mention them to give you an idea of what we have all over the house. Our Embroideries were never equaled anywhere, that's all.

OTHER SPECIALTIES

Lace Caps for children-all new. During our long reign of business, we can truthfully say that we have never never shown such a great variety of fine goods and novelties of all kinds. Take our word this

Our DRESS GOODS are simply great. They surpass even our own expectations. When we went on for the freshest and best of everything there, we got it to a surprising degree.

Fans, the choicest and latest novelties; handkerchiefs, one of our strong-

Parasols, lovely styles in all shades, and Bustles, the very latest. These and scores of other specialties we carry, and they are all offered at such prices as will astonish any one.

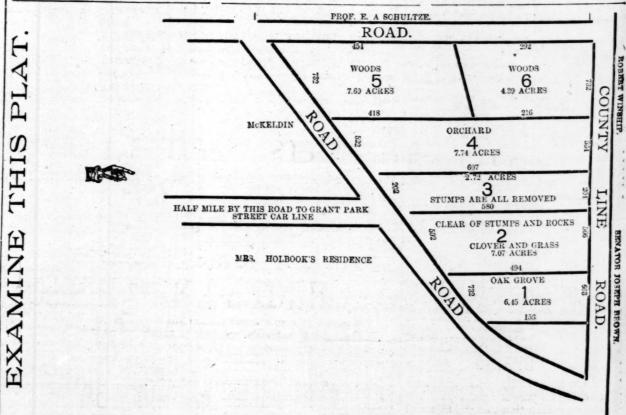

Not forgetting our SHOES, we will say that we beat them all in this department! We have every possible grade of shoes, and we guarantee them to be good and cheaper than you can buy them anywhere.

This is our season for RUSHING BARGAINS, and the public is finding it out in a hurry. We have to be getting in fresh novelties every day. We bid you come to see us and receive a cordial welcome.

Wednesday, April 18, 3:30 p. m.

IT REPRESENTS THE CHOICEST 36 ACRES OF "ORMEWOOD,"

21/2 miles from the Kimball House, and a half a mile from Grant Park. The whole tract is nearly level; 18 acres are in a beautiful grove of oak and hickory, and 18 acres are entirely freed from stumps and thickly sodded with orchard grass and clover. There are six divisions of from TWO to SEVEN ACRES EACH, and each has a front on two roads.

The plat shows which has woods and which of the lots has clover and grass on it. Nos. 3 and 4 have fine free stone springs. All the clover land is in a high state of cultivation. The timber land, Nos. 1, 5 and 6, has a number of very beautiful building sites; hence, if any one desires to secure a choice little place of a few acres convenient to the city, and with many advantages, this sale gives a rare opportunity. Be sure to drive out and inspect this property before the sale, and be ready to go in the free conveyances from our office next Wednesday, April 18th, at 2:30 to 3 p. m,

There are three pretty drives to the property: One out Decatur street, through Reynoldstown along the Flat Shoals road by John Faith's, leaving this road to the left about McPherson avenue, thence directly south by county line road to the property. Another way is out East Fair street, by the City Stockade and W. C. Saunder's pretty suburban place; and the other out Fair to Hill street to the Grant Park, thence through the park directly east by "Little Switzerland" to the property about a half mile.

THE GREAT DEADLOCK. How it Taxed the Endurance of the Members.

KEEPING UP A SUPPLY OF SCHEMES. nen Keeping Bad Hours in Order to Be Up at the Call of the Roll—A Visit to Mrs. Cleveland.

WASHINGTON, April 15. - [Special.]-The deadlock was a severe test upon the strength of every member of the house and particularly the filibusters, for it was with considerable effort that they succeeded in keeping up their filibustering tacties for so long a time. The dilbustering tacties for so long a time. The dilbustering tacties for so long a time. The long session commencing Tuesday morning at 11:45 o'clock and continuing throughout the entire night until 7 o'clock on Wednesday evening was as much as any of them could stand, and the Georgia delegation especially. with the exception of Mr. Blount, were completely worn out and yet have not recovered from the effect of the "wake." And too add to their hardship when the Metropolitan hotel members returned at 12 o'clock on Wednesday members returned at 12 o'clock on Wednesday night after the caucus, they found the elevator broken and had to climb to the fifth story. Of course Augusta's representative was the greatest sufferer and had it not been for the other members and porters who assisted him Major Barnes would probably have been compelled to camp for the night in the office. The long session was probably more severe on Major Barnes than any other member of the house for he was one of the number who would embers returned at 12 o'clock on Wednesday on Major Barnes than any other member of the house, for he was one of the number who would not even leave the the hall for a few moments knowing that his vote might be needed at any minute. Many of the members secured sofas upon which they slept in the lobby, but the major not being one of the fortunates was compalled to wander around the hall listening to pelled to wander around the hall listening to and telling jokes until breakfast time the next

Judge Crisp and Mr. Clements got a few bours sleep in their committee rooms and Mr. Candler secured a sofa but Amos Cumming, Tim Campbell and others made life a burden Tim Campbell and others made line a burden to him the entire night by telling stories, singing songs and daucing in their own in-lmitable way, which resulted in Mr. Candler's-having to veto the resolution to seek sleep and join in with the wits and made the remainder of the night merry by being one of "the boys." When the sun rose in the morning and kissed the forehead of the Goddess of Liberty crowning the dome of the capitol Mr.

Candler appeared bright and fresh as the morning rose. Though having lost morning rose. Though having lost his usual sleep, he was in fact refreshed by his six or seven hours association with the brainy and brilliant young a great ways tomen whose humor and fun go a great ways towards breaking the monotony of a tiresom and tedions deadlock. The remainder of the delegation, with the exception of Mr. Blount, caught naps between roll calls as best they could in their chairs. The Macon statesman, however, was more fortunate than his colleagues. His long term of service was of great the His long term of service was of great use to him in the trying times of an all night dead-lock. This was not a time for eloquence, and when men march down the halls of congress tearing off the masks from their opponents, amid the applause and cheers of his excited countrymen, but it was a time when it tried men's patience, fortitude and devotion and devotion to conviction of a principal in which their constituents were interested. It was regarded by the delegationas a case of personal endurance and self sac rifice. As each individual filibusterer was keeping faithful vigilant of the night Mr.

Blount, in the hours of silence wrapped grace-fully his overcoat around him, with a quiet and steady tread stole softly from the inner chamber through the lobby and passed the guards out into the darkness of the night, caught a street car and rode gracefully to his room and there spent the night and presumably slept the slee appeared no more in the house until the next morning at half past nine, having had ten hours of joyful rest, when he was again ready for battle during the remainder of the day. Mr. Blount had gone through previous dead-locks, and none knew better than he how to steal a march on his colleagues and spend the night in sleep while they were toiling, struggling, perspiring, nodding and perhaps cursing all for the sake of their constituents.

When this became known to the remainder of the delegation there was naturally an outburst of indignation regarding Mr. Blount's deserting the house in the hour of peril, and threats are made by some of them that in the next deadlock they will petition the sergeant-at-arms to chain Mr. Blount to his seat before the wee sma' hours of night arrive, before he can hie himself away for a quiet, good old fashion Georgia snooze.

Those who stood out the boldest in the front ranks of the battle will make the point on their colleague from Macon that, in justice to them as well as the state, he should not go back to his people with a very great claim of one who suffered most that the cotton tax might be refunded. PERKINS'S FEEBLE ATTEMPT.

Representative Perkins, of Kansas, made a futile attempt to create a sensation in the house yesterday. He was granted permission to make a speech of thirty minutes on the In dian appropriation bill, but instead of speak-ing on the bill under consideration, he made a tariff speech, advocating protection. Mr. Perkins had read copious extracts from the constitution of the confederacy, which, in a measure, as he said, was framed upon a free trade doctrine. Perkins grew very eloquent in support of his argument, and took it for ted that it was impossible for the majority of the gentlemen composing the ways and means committee, who had marched under the banner of the confederacy, to change their opinions from what they were twenty-five years ago. There was little, if anything, in the speech other than the waving of the bloody shirt. However, young Mr. Allen, of Mississippi, replied to Perkins and in his humorous way made so much fun of Perkins's absurdity that the man from Kansas was compelled to regret that he had fired the bomb. In other rds Perkins was like the boy fooling with the gun-he didn't know it was loaded. A VISIT TO MRS. CLEVELAND.

A party of ladies from Georgia, friends of Mrs. Cleveland, called at the white house to see her and enjoyed a social chat of half an hour. During their conversation the Augusta exposition was spoken of, and Mrs. Cleveland said how much she would like to visit that beautiful city, of which she had heard so much from Major Barnes, through the president. (That was when the major was working to get his public building bill signed.) She also spoke enthusiastically of her delight ful trip to Atlanta and equally as enthusiastic-ally of Mr. Grady, whom she said had conted so much to her enjoyment. She was in her most agreeable mood and left the impression upon the minds of her visitors that had she the election of a candidate for vice-president to Thou
